The 2022 International Booker Prize

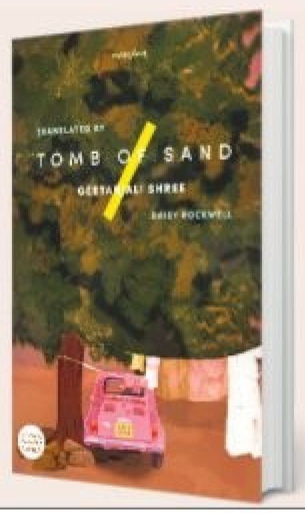
BOOKER MOMENT FOR GEETANJALI'S TRANSLATED WORK



SIMI KURIAKOSE @ New Delhi

FOR Delhi-based writer Geetanjali Shree and translator Daisy Rockwell, their novel Tomb of Sand fetching the super-prestigious International Booker Prize was an epic moment. The award was a first for any Indian language book, and the first time a Hindi book made it to the International Booker shortlist.

"I accept it with a lot of humility, happiness and pride. I am very happy that I became a medium for the world to now take notice of Hindi. People should realise that, just like in Hindi, other Indian languages also have a literary world that they must become aware of," shared Shree. The book was originally published in Hindi as Ret Samadhi in 2018.

Namita Gokhale, writer and co-director of the Jaipur Literature Festival, said, "It has been translated with skill, empathy and exuberance. It is a proud moment for Hindi, the third-most spoken language in the world, and for all of Indian writing."

Satyanand Nirupam, editorial director of the publishing house, Rajkamal Prakashan, said: "We were very confident about this novel when we published it in 2018."

Noted Indian translator Arunava Sinha said, "This is a book that says 'give up everything else, just come and spend time with me and we will journey, we will travel.' While reading this book, you are forced to acknowledge the writing, the words, the sounds, etc, and that makes for such a satisfying experience, so removed from the way we consume art nowadays."

Such recognition also provides impetus to homegrown writers and translators. "The new generation lacked enthusiasm in or was confused about the rich heritage of Hindi literature. In such a period, to have this win is only going to attract people towards the language," added Nirupam.

Stressing that there exists "brilliant and relevant contemporary writing" in Indian languages, Gokhale concluded, "We need to break out of the hegemony of English."

No proof, Aryan's name cleared in narcotics case

SUDHIR SURYAWANSHI
@ Mumbai

A year after he was arrested in connection with a party drug haul, the Narcotics Control Bureau (NCB) on Friday cleared the name of Bollywood star Shah Rukh Khan's son Aryan Khan in the case.

The NCB's special investigation team (SIT) did not find any evidence of drugs or other related substance on Aryan or the other five accused. "The touchstone of the principle of proof beyond reasonable doubt has been applied... a complaint against 14 persons under various sections of NDPS Act is being filed. Complaint against rest six persons is not being filed due to lack of sufficient evidence," a note signed by Sanjay Kumar Singh, deputy director general of NCB, read.

It all began on October 2, 2021 when NCB Mumbai intercepted Vikrant, Ishmeet, Arbaaz, Aryan and Gomit at the International Port Terminal in Mumbai and Nupur, Mohak and Munmun at the Cordelia Cruise. Aryan did not have drugs with him. Yet, he was forced to sign papers admitting he was in possession of drugs. On the basis of the self-declaration in NCB custody, he was put behind bars, the note added.

According to officials, Aryan was arrested on the assumption that his friend was the drug carrier. "But the SIT found that Aryan's friend was not carrying any drugs for him. In fact, Aryan had told him to carry drugs. Besides, no drug was found on Aryan during the raid. He was also not subjected to a medical test to verify if he had consumed any narcotic. Even in Aryan's What'sApp chat record, no substantial evidence was found to file and pursue the case. Therefore, the charges framed by Mumbai NCB have been dropped against Aryan and other five," and NCB official said.

THE NCB Mumbai operation was led by Sameer Wankhede, but NCP minister Nawab Malik called it an extortion racket and outed the former's fake caste certificate, following which he was replaced as the probe officer. With the NCB now giving Aryan a clean chit, the Centre ordered a full-scale probe against Wankhade.

No funds to raze buildings

Use money allotted to wards, BBMP AEEs told

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

After several buildings collapsed in Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike (BBMP) limits in the last 10 months, the civic body had directed its zonal engineers to prepare a list of old and weak buildings that can be demolished as a precautionary measure. However, after clearing 13 such buildings identified for demolition, BBMP has put the drive on hold due to lack of funds.

BBMP Special Commissioner, Trilok Chandra said. "As per records, there were 503 such buildings and so far 13 have been cleared. Many of the owners have gone to court. Assistant Executive Engineers (AEEs) have now been instructed to use funds allocated to wards for the drive".

On measures being taken to curb the spread of Covid-19 in BBMP limits, the commissioner said 15,000 Covid-19 tests are being carried out on a daily basis and the tests are being done primarily on people who have symptoms. In the last one week, 120 to 140 confirmed cases have been reported. No critical cases have been reported so far and even in genome sequencing, no significant variant has been found. He said BBMP has achieved almost 100 per cent vaccination in both first and second doses for those above 18 years of age and so far six lakh people have been administered the booster dose. The commissioner also said that private hospitals have been given permission to administer precautionary doses. Seventy per cent of those in the age-group of 15 to 17 have been vaccinated and after schools reopen, the remaining will be covered.

Similarly, almost all in the 12 to 14 years group have been given the first dose, whereas only 20 per cent have been given the second dose. In the next one month, it plans to cover all. The health and education department officials will go to schools and administer the vaccines.

141 PHCs to be upgraded

The BBMP Special Commissioner said 141 BBMP Primary Health Centres (PHC) will be upgraded with better labs, day care, more space and other facilities. The referral hospitals and maternity hospitals will be given latest equipment and will be made available 24x7 to the public. As many as 57 PHCs on the outskirts, that run on rents, may get permanent structures. For this, a proposal of Rs 180 crore has been sent to the government for approval. Trilok Chandra also said that no Monkeypox cases have been detected in BBMP limits and measures have been taken to screen passengers at the airport and other transit points in border areas.

Metro's Airport Line work encounters pipeline hurdle

S LALITHA @Bengaluru

THE final leg of Metro's airport line running from IAF in Yelahanka to the KIA Terminal has encountered a massive 2-km-long water pipeline when the foundation work was being carried out. Talks are on with BWSSB to shift it urgently. Meanwhile, the work of translocating trees from the premises of the Kempegowda International Airport is underway.

This stretch (Package-3) is part of the 37-km Phase-2B Line between KR Puram and KIA. NCC Pvt Ltd has been contracted with this Rs 6,80.12 crore project for which 57,676 sqm of land has been required.

Bangalore International Airport Limited refused to share details on the number of trees to be translocated. BIAL is also involved in shifting of electrical and water utilities here.

BC Nataraja, Chief Engineer, BMRCL, in-charge of Package-3, told TNIE, "The pipeline transporting treated water from Yelahanka to KIA is one challenge. A major part of this 350mm-diameter pipeline passes through Doddajala Metro station. Also, the rocky terrain at Bettahalasuru is proving difficult to bore through."

He said, "The piling work (to lay foundation) is on at a rapid pace. Three pillars (piers) have been completed on the service road near Chikkajala. In all, 497 piers will be laid on the stretch." Small patches of land need to be additionally acquired due to design changes at the stations recently, he added. "Instead of individual platforms, island platforms will be built that will be easier for the public as two platforms would be located on either side. This would not impact ongoing works."

Nine rigs (for excavation), each weighing around 100 tonnes, have been pressed into action and more will be deployed soon. They have been shipped from Germany, Italy and China. Nagendra expressed confidence that the deadline of 2024-end for completing the Airport Line would be met. NCC has been entrusted with the works of Package 1 (KR Puram to Kempapura) and Package 2 (Kempapura to IAF).

Students, teachers shut down BU Finance Block

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

ANOTHER controversy erupted at Bangalore University as protesting students, teachers and Syndicate members shut down the Finance Block of the university on Friday, accusing Vice-Chancellor K R Venugopal of pressurising the university's finance officer to disburse Rs 49 crore for works unrelated to the university.

Syndicate members alleged that no approval has been given for the move. TNIE had reported last week on the members protest against the VC's proposal. They had alleged that the funds were to be used on development works for the University's Visvesvaraya College of Engineering (UVCE).

According to protesters, at around 9.30 pm on Thursday, two people had entered the Finance Block and were allegedly seen preparing cheques and bills to release the amount. Responding to this, the university's teacher and student associations as well as Syndicate members stormed the Finance Officer's office on Friday and demanded an explanation, and locked the Finance Block. They submitted a memorandum to the Finance Officer as well as to the VC's office.

They urged that funds granted to the university from the state and other institutions should not be used for development works. Syndicate members also pointed out that Venugopal is ineligible to make such financial decisions as his term as VC ends on June 11.

It may be noted that this is not the first time that the university has come under fire for financial irregularities. Previous finance officer, Parvathi HB, had been relieved by Venugopal without prior approval after she conducted an independent audit and revealed multiple financial irregularities in 2020.

Lalbagh flower show may be named after Puneeth

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE much-celebrated annual city event — Lalbagh flower show held in August — is all set to return this year after a two-year Covid break. The news was confirmed by Minister Munirathna Naidu.

Speaking after inaugurating the annual Mango Mela, which also returned after a two-year break, Naidu said this year's flower show is likely to be named after late actor Puneeth Rajkumar. "The flower show will surely be held in August this time. We tried to name the January 26 show after Puneeth Rajkumar, but we could not. We will now discuss it at government-level and take a decision," said Naidu.

The minister also said that 105 stalls have been put up at Mango Mela and farmers from eight districts will directly sell their mangoes which are free from any chemicals.

"Although farmers have put up their stalls, we have fixed rates from the department and if there are any issues with rates or cheating, buyers can file a complaint with Lalbagh director and action will be taken accordingly," the minister said.

Compensation to rain-hit families

Minister Munirathna Naidu said he will hold a meeting with officials of Yelahanka and Darasahalli zones to assess the damage caused by heavy rains which lashed the city recently. He said, he will call a meeting of Dasarahalli Zone Special Task Force on Tuesday followed by meetings in Yelahanka and Byatrayanpura areas. "I will visit flood-hit areas and ensure that funds from the Rs 1,500 crore allocated to all zones are properly utilised." To a question on KPCC chief DK Shivakumar saying that BJP is targeting him through the Enforcement Directorate (ED) to pressure him to join the BJP, Naidu said whoever is making that statement should go public. He also claimed that the BJP is already in a strong position. The minister also said that the BJP was ready to face the polls.

GEMINI

SANJAY'S FAMILY DONATES ORGANS, HEALTH DEPT WAIVES BILL

SHILPA P @Bengaluru

SETTING aside their grief, the family of 12-year-old Sanjay, who was declared brain-dead on Thursday, opted to donate his heart valves -- which can save two children -- kidneys and liver at a city-based private hospital on Friday. Sanjay was seriously injured in the Jakkur flyover accident early Sunday morning, which claimed his uncle, Govindappa CT.

While his accident was the first shocker, and brain death another one, worries of clearing the bill amounting to Rs 1.35 lakh was the biggest blow to his poor parents who are daily wage workers from Andhra Pradesh. The health department informed them that the Andhra Pradesh government health card doesn't apply in Karnataka.

The family, which had deposited Rs 65,000 by pledging his mother's jewels, was relieved when health department officers intervened, and the remaining bill of Rs 1.50 lakh was waived, according to his uncle, Nagaraj.

Sanjay, a Class 5 student, had arrived from his village in Andhra Pradesh with his mother, to his maternal aunt's house near Jakkur flyover at 5pm on Saturday. The accident occurred on Jakkur flyover around 7.30am on Sunday. His uncle died on the spot while Sanjay, who was riding pillion, was dragged along with the two-wheeler. His body was taken to his hometown for cremation on Friday evening, Nagaraj said.

It took officers from the State Organ and Tissue Transplant Organisation of Karnataka (SOTTO) time to convince Sanjay's family to donate his organs. His parents were worried that the villagers would accuse them of selling his organs. But it was cleared by SOTTO sources that neither would the donor get any benefit from the government or beneficiary, nor would the beneficiaries be charged for the organs.

Bharateesh Reddy, Vice-President of BGS Apollo Hospital, said the hospital charges for treatment procedures of the accident victim until he is declared brain-dead, and minimal organ retrieval charges would be borne by SOTTO. The recipients only have to bear surgery charges, he said.

Bill borne by state govt

In case of an accident, if a person with an Arogya Karnataka card gets treated at a private hospital on emergency basis, irrespective of being referred by a government hospital, and the person is from a BPL family, the entire bill amount would be borne by the State government. If the person is from an APL family, 30 per cent of the amount would be borne by the government, health department sources said.

"At least NGOs should come forward to bear the complete treatment cost of accident victims from APL families who donate organs, which would bring some solace to the deceased's family," a doctor felt.

TANKER OWNER, DRIVER, PROXY BEHIND BARS

Tried to mislead cops on the real driver

PRAVEEN KUMAR @ Bengaluru

THE owner of the water tanker which killed a four-year-old girl in HSR Layout, was arrested along with the driver of the vehicle, and a person who was proxy for the actual driver.

The arrested are identified as R Anand, 47, of Kasavanahalli, the owner of the tanker, Md Rakib, 23, of Bommanahalli, the tanker driver, and N Ramesh Babu, 36, of Kasavanahalli, his proxy. Prathiksha Bhat, daughter of Khem Raj Bhat, a resident of Serenity Layout, was killed at 12.10 pm on Thursday at Shwetha Residency Apartments, about 100 metres from her house. Prathiksha, who playing outside her house, had strolled towards the apartment block, where a water tanker was filling up the sump.

The driver reversed the tanker and knocked down the girl. The right rear wheel of the vehicle ran over her head, crushing her to death. The driver sped away after the incident. HSR Layout traffic police summoned Anand to bring the driver. Instead of bringing Rakib to the police, Anand had arranged Babu as the proxy, after promising him financial help.

"During the course of investigation, Babu spilled the beans that he was not the actual driver and only the proxy. Following this, police managed to arrest Rakib. Apart from the case pertaining to the accident, another case was registered against the tanker owner and Rakib for trying to mislead the police," said an officer who is part of the investigation. Prathiksha's father, who worked as a security guard earlier, has no job currently, while her mother works as a domestic help.

COPS BOOK 258 CASES AGAINST DRIVERS

Following the death of a four-year-old girl, who was run over by a water tanker in HSR Layout traffic police station limits on Thursday, the East Division traffic police conducted a special drive against water tankers on Friday and booked 258 cases. Police said four drivers were booked for drunken driving, while 28 were booked for driving through no-entry zones. As many as 14 water tanker drivers were caught jumping traffic signals and seven were found using a mobile phone while driving. For driving without insurance and driving licence, one and two cases were booked, respectively. As many as 123 drivers were booked for driving without a uniform.

Doctor looking for job cheated of ₹11L

PRAVEEN KUMAR @Bengaluru

A city-based 46-year-old plastic surgeon has approached the Kumbalgodu police station on the outskirts of the city after she was cheated by a conman assuring her a job at a reputed hospital in Dubai. The victim had uploaded her resume for the post of a consultant plastic surgeon at the hospital. The conman, identifying himself as an executive of a Kolkata-based job consultant firm, called the victim saying they would help her get the job if she registers with them. Believing in the claims of the unidentified caller, she registered with the firm paying Rs 5,000.

Dr Suma (name changed), a resident of Brigade Panorama Apartment in Kengeri, filed a complaint against the fraudster identified as Karan Singh of West Bengal.

The victim is said to have kept making online payments through UPI transactions to the account numbers provided by the accused towards various fees. The victim was made to pay for the verification of her credentials, exam fees and license fees. She was also asked to pay for obtaining a no-objection certificate which is mandatory to work at the Dubai hospital. The entire transactions happened between July and August of 2021. The victim never met the executive in person, but spoke to him only over the phone.

"The victim got suspicious after the website of the said consultant firm stopped functioning for the last three months. Her repeated phone calls also went unanswered. The victim stated in her complaint that she lost Rs 11.66 lakh," said an officer, who is part of the investigation.

When contacted, the doctor confirmed that she filed a complaint and said the matter is under investigation.

A case of cheating under Section 420 of the Indian Penal Code (IPC) has been registered against the suspect, Karan Singh.

RAGPICKERS BY DAY, THIEVES BY NIGHT

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

RAGPICKERS by day and thieves by night. This was the modus-operandi of two inter-state thieves who have been arrested by the North Division Police in Bengaluru. Stolen gold ornaments and other valuables worth Rs 26.3 lakh have been recovered from the two who have identified as Sameer from West Bengal and Mohammed from Delhi.

In the guise of ragpickers, the accused used to look for houses locked during the day. They targeted homes where newspapers and milk packets were not picked for more than a day, which would confirm to them that the occupants were not at home.

The Bagalagunte police have recovered 539 grams of gold ornaments, an autorickshaw and a two-wheeler from the two.

They were arrested following a complaint from one of the victims who had gone to Delhi after locking his house in 2nd Main, Siddeshwara Layout. The theft at his home took place on May 9. The accused had broken open the grill doors of the balcony and had stolen gold ornaments from the cupboard.

"The accused worked as ragpickers during the day and would sell their collection at a scrap yard in Chikkabanawara. Based on the footage of CCTV in the vicinity, we were able to arrest them with the help of local intelligence," said a police officer.

Acid attack victim's health fluctuates

SHILPA P @ Bengaluru

ACID attack victim Aasha is back in the ICU, after she underwent her fifth surgery on Friday.

Despite her health condition fluctuating due to around 36 per cent surface burns, Aasha is conscious, alert and responsive. It's been nearly a month since she was attacked by a stalker, Nagesh.

"She gets better, tolerates procedures, but at times suffers fever and oxygen saturation goes down. This fluctuation is because more than one-third of her body has suffered extensive burns, she can develop infection, fluid can ooze out of burnt areas, and her blood picture can change," said Dr Arvind Kasthuri, Chief of Medical Services, St John's Hospital.

He added, "While part of the torso, one side of the neck, face and scalp are burnt, skin donated twice by Victoria Hospital was used as a temporary cover-like dressing, it doesn't become her skin, it goes away. She is having food orally, and will have to be in hospital for at least a month. We are counselling her family," Dr Kasthuri said.

"Her father is confident of her recovery, and her mother is still a little worried. Once she recovers, we plan to get her married to a person who would support her and take good care of her," her uncle Sundaresh said.

25 firms show interest in investing ₹65k cr in state

Investors have immense confidence in Karnataka, says CM

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

OVER 25 companies have committed to invest at least Rs 65,000 crore in the state, generating employment opportunities to lakhs of people, said Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai here on Friday, after returning from Davos.

He said neither communal issues nor infrastructure woes had any impact on investors as they have immense confidence in Karnataka. "Karnataka has not lost nor will it lose," he asserted. The interest shown by many companies is the result of the state government's progressive policies and incentives for industrialisation.

A conducive ecosystem for investment, forward-looking policies, technology, availability of skilled human resources, research and development base, incentives for entrepreneurs and availability of land have enabled Karnataka to gain the confidence and trust of investors, Bommai said. The government will provide better infrastructure and ensure ease of doing business for investors. Many of these companies have also shown interest in investing in other parts of the state, not just Bengaluru, he added.

In the recent past, many prominent personalities, including Telangana IT-BT Minister Rama Rao, had pointed to lack of infrastructure and communal issues in Karnataka. Asked if these had any impact on investors, Bommai said no. On the recent floods bringing Bengaluru to a standstill and its effect on investors, he said when it rains, floods are common in every metro city. This will not hinder any company from investing in the city and state, he added. "Ahead of the Global Investors Meet and Tech Summit, both of which will be held in Bengaluru, we will provide all infrastructure. We have already started with an action plan and constituted the task force. Under the Nagarothana scheme, we have released Rs 6,000 crore. We will start work this month and over the next 18 months, works will be completed. The state has approved Rs 1,600 crore for the storm water drain work too," he added.

Bommai said Karnataka is playing a major role in the post-Covid economic recovery of the country. "The world is looking at India as a major economic power. Companies have evinced interest in investing in hydropower, aerospace, renewable energy and other sectors. Focused sessions were held on climate change and renewable energy at Davos," he added.

He said the state government is committed to provide better infrastructure and to simplify procedures and policies to raise the level of ease of doing business. Investors, especially in sectors that will define the future like defence, technology, semiconductor and others, are looking only at Karnataka for investment. "You cannot compare Karnataka with any other state," he added.

He said Axis Bank has been requested to be the anchor bank for Sthree Shakthi self-help groups to provide loans and other services and join hands with the state government in its programme for economic empowerment of women.

Defence Minister Rajnath Singh on board INS Khanderi submarine off Karwar coast on Friday | EXPRESS

Rajnath: Navy to induct 41 warships, subs soon

"AFTER this, my confidence in the Navy has further increased," the defence minister added.

Highlighting the country's Make-in-India and Atmanirbhar Bharat initiatives, the minister said the Indian Navy will be inducting 41 warships and submarines in the coming days, of which 39 will be made under the Make-in-India initiative. "The INS Khanderi — the submarine in which I undertook the sea sortie — is developed in India. I have an emotional bond with it as I was present when it was commissioned in September 2019," he added.

A statement from the Defence ministry said during the four-hour sortie, "the full spectrum of capabilities of underwater operations of the stealth submarine was demonstrated" to Singh, and he witnessed a "wide range of operational drills with the submarine demonstrating the advanced sensor suite, combat system and weapon capability which provides it a distinct advantage in the subsurface domain".

He also got a glimpse of the submarine's capability to effectively counter anti-submarine operations by an adversary. He was accompanied by Chief of Naval Staff Admiral R Hari Kumar along with other senior Navy and ministry officials.

The operational sortie was accompanied by the deployment of ships of the Western Fleet, an anti-submarine mission sortie by a P-8I MPA and Sea King helicopter, a fly-past by MiG 29-K fighters and a search and rescue capability demonstration, the statement said. With this, Singh has now "witnessed first-hand the three-dimensional combat capability of the Indian Navy, after having embarked on the INS Vikramaditya in September 2019 and conducted a sortie on the P8I long-range maritime reconnaissance anti-submarine warfare aircraft earlier this month," the statement added.

The INS Khanderi, part of the P-75 project, under which six conventional submarines are being made in India, was commissioned on September 28, 2019. The Navy has commissioned four of these Kalvari-(Scorpene) class submarines, and two more are likely to be inducted by end next year. Before setting out on the sea sortie, the minister participated in a yoga session at the naval base. He also interacted with the crew of INS Khanderi.

MLC POLLS

Seven MLCs elected unopposed

Bengaluru: All seven candidates -- four from the BJP, two from Congress and one from the JDS -- in the fray for the biennial election to Karnataka Legislative Council were declared elected unopposed on Friday. Former deputy chief minister Laxman Savadi, BJP president of state SC Morcha Chalavadi Narayanaswamy, Hemalatha Nayak, S Keshavaprasad from the BJP, former chairman of Bangalore Metropolitan Transport Corporation M Nagaraju Yadav and president of KPCC's minority cell K Abdul Jabbar of Congress and former MLC T A Saravana of the Janata Dal (Secular) were elected. Friday was the last date for the withdrawal of nominations for the elections to the council by the members of the Legislative Assembly scheduled to be held on June 3. However, the election was a mere formality as it was a foregone conclusion that these candidates will be elected as each candidate needs 29 votes to get elected as a council member. The council election was necessitated as the term of seven members -- Laxman Savadi and Lahar Singh of BJP, Allum Veerabhadrappa, Veena Achaiah and Ramappa Timmapur of Congress and Narayana Swamy and H M Ramesha Gowda JD(S) -- will end on June 14. ENS

Govt politicising education system, says DKS

KPCC president D K Shivakumar has slammed the state government, saying that it is trying to politicise the education system, and appealed to education experts and think tanks to raise their voices against this. "Education is the basic foundation for a progressive society, but the BJP is politicising the education system with its right-wing agenda," he told reporters. The Congress leader accused the government of trying to change the country's history by distorting facts and trying to impose RSS principles into children's minds.

MasterCard may work with govt on tourism

As part of talks at the World Economic Forum (WEF), Karnataka Skill Development Minister Dr C N Ashwath Narayan and MasterCard held discussions on collaborating with the state government on tourism and data analytics. Currently, MasterCard is working towards digitisation of around 25,000 farmers, and according to a post on social media by the minister on Friday, the effort will allow farmers to generate a 25 per cent increase in profits. Recently, the company had collaborated with Lawrencedale Agro Processing (LEAF) to start a LEAF Farmer Network (LFN). As part of the programme, around 25,000 farmers in Karnataka are being provided training to help digitise their practices, starting from farming technology in rural areas to connecting them with buyers. The talks on Friday are an extension of the programme.

BJP slams Kodihalli, Kejriwal over TV sting

The BJP has slammed farmer organisation leader Kodihalli Chandrashekar, who recently joined the Aam Aadmi Party, and party leader Arvind Kejriwal after a private TV channel, which reportedly conducted a sting claiming that the Karnataka Rajya Raitha Sangha president demanded Rs 35 crore to end the agitation of the state transport corporation employees last year. In a series of tweets, the party Karnataka handle, citing the TV channel report, said, "A demonetised Congress has unleashed national-level broker Rakesh Tikait and Karnataka-level broker Kodihalli Chandrashekhar to derail the farmer friendly farm laws. While these brokers made money in the name of our annadatas, poor farmers continue to suffer even today."

IS RSS ORIGINALLY FROM INDIA, ASKS SIDDARAMAIAH

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

AS there is a controversy over inclusion of RSS founder KB Hedgewar's speech in Class 10 textbook, Congress Legislature Party leader Siddaramaiah on Friday asked, "Are RSS people native to India? Are Aryans native to this country? It is Dravidians who are originally from this country."

At an event on the death anniversary of former Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru, he said, "Rohit Chakratirtha has been given the responsibility of schoolchildren's textbooks. I have never seen anything more unwise. Chakratirtha has removed portions on the iconic patriot Bhagat Singh and replaced them with a Hedgewar's speech. If anyone questions this, they say leave this country of ours. Who has to leave the country? Is RSS originally from this country?"

He said, "RSS is scared of real history. They know what will happen if ordinary people come to know the true history. This is why history is being deceptively distorted. ''

He said Nehru had the courage to sit in Parliament and listen to Opposition parties. "Does Prime Minister Narendra Modi have that courage? The government has completely failed."

Reacting, Union Minister Pralhad Joshi said, "The CLP leader does not know facts or is trying to please Rahul Gandhi and appease Muslims.''

Siddu demands judicial probe

Bengaluru: Opposition leader Siddaramaiah has written to Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai urging him to order a judicial inquiry into the police sub-inspector recruitment scam. Siddaramaiah demanded that a sitting High Court judge should head the investigation and the ministers against whom there are allegations should be dropped from the cabinet immediately. The CID, which is probing the case, has not taken note of the serious allegations made against the ministers, but notices have been issued to Congress legislators who spoke about the scam, the former CM said. The CID probe is an eyewash and a judicial probe has to be ordered to bring out the truth, he added.

Entry of KRRS, BSP, SDPI, independents worries 3 big parties

K SHIVA KUMAR @Mysuru

With 20 candidates filing 33 sets of nomination papers for the Legislative Council election from the South Graduates' Constituency, the entry of independents and other smaller political parties has worried Congress, BJP and JDS.

Though till the previous election, the contest was between these three prominent political parties, the entry of independents is giving them the jitters.

With over 1.37 lakh voters in the South Graduates' constituency, a winning candidate should get 55,000 first-preference votes. The entry of Raitha Sangha candidate Prasanna V Gowda, supported by DSS, Swaraj Party and over 17 organisations, and a show of strength before filing his nomination papers have sent warning signals to candidates from the three big parties.

Raitha Sangha has reached out to rural, Dalit and other voters and has also targeted Vokkaligas, who constitute around 48,000 votes.

The Bahujan Samaj Party, which supported other candidates in the past, is now backing Channakeshva Murthy, targeting graduates from Dalit, backward and microscopic communities. SDPI has fielded its district president Raghath Ulla Khan to consolidate graduates from minority communities and Dalits. Congress and JDS are worried that the entry of these two parties could rob them of their traditional vote banks. JDS is already facing a rebellion with sitting MLC Marithibbe Gowda announcing that he would not campaign for JDS candidate HK Ramu.

The entry of South Graduates' Constituency Forum member NS Vinay, a Lingayat, has worried BJP candidate YV Ravishankar. Vinay has been accused of luring the voters, while voters point to the absence of former chief minister BS Yediyurappa's photo in BJP's campaign material.

The three major political parties have reworked their strategies to check the influence of independents and decided to appeal to graduates in taluks and cities for first-preference votes.

Maggi for breakfast, lunch, dinner: Insta divorce over insta noodles

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Mysuru

WHILE the fast and busy hectic lifestyles have made most young working couples adjust to ready-to-consume food, a husband sought divorce as his wife prepared only Maggi noodles.

Principal district and sessions court judge ML Raghunath, speaking about matrimonial cases where couples file for divorce over petty issues, said on Friday that this case came up when he was the district judge in Ballari. He said, "The husband said his wife did not know how to prepare any food other than Maggi noodles. It was noodles for breakfast, lunch and dinner. He complained that his wife went to the provision store and brought only instant noodles." Naming it the 'Maggi case', Raghunath said the couple ultimately got divorced on mutual consent.

Asserting that settling matrimonial disputes is a little difficult, Raghunath said most reunions happen because couples consider the future of their children. "We use sentiments to bring a compromise among couples and reunite them. It is more of psychological issues than physical. In most cases, though couples reunite, scars of their dispute remain. Out of 800-900 matrimonial cases, we succeed in about 20-30 cases. In the previous Lok Adalat, of around 110 divorce cases, reunion happened in just 32 cases," he said.

Mysuru district has five family courts, each with around 500 matrimonial cases, and of them around 800 cases are for seeking divorce.

"Divorce cases are increasing drastically over the years. Couples have to stay together for at least a year before seeking divorce. If there was no such law, there would be divorce petitions filed directly from wedding halls," he said.

Courts have received divorce cases by couples just a day after their marriage, for not talking with the partner, for putting salt on the wrong side of the plate, for stitching the wrong colour wedding suit, for not taking the wife out and other such reasons.

Stating that divorce petitions are filed in both arranged and love marriages, he said the former is like getting bitten by a snake without intention, while the latter is like intentionally getting bitten.

"We get divorce petitions more from urban areas than rural parts. In rural areas, village panchayats intervene and settle the problems. Women have no independence and their fear of society and family sentiments force them to cope with the situation. But in cities, women are educated and financially independent," he said.

DALIT YOUTH KILLED OVER INTERFAITH RELATIONSHIP

Victim was courting a Muslim girl, was threatened to stay away from her

Chittapur MLA Priyank Kharge consoles the mother of the deceased Vijaykumar Kamble (inset) at Wadi town in Kalaburagi on Friday | EXPRESS

IN a suspected case of honour killing, a 25-year-old youth was hacked to death at Wadi railway station here in the district recently. The youth, a dalit, was courting a Muslim girl and the brother of the latter has been arrested along with his friend over the charges of murder.

The deceased Vijaykumar Kamble of Bheem Nagar in Wadi town was a cook at the canteen at Wadi Railway Station. He was in love with a Muslim girl Parvin (name changed) for over five years. The family members of the girl who were against their relationship had even warned and manhandled Kamble asking him to stay away from her a few years back. They had also advised him to severe the ties as he was the only issue to his parents to avoid consequences in the future, but to no avail.

On Wednesday evening, Kamble was with his friend Raghavendra at the railway station, when two persons attacked him with lethal weapons and fled from the spot.

Raghavendra tried to shift Kamble to a hospital, but the latter had succumbed to the injuries on the spot.

The youth's parents have lodged a complaint at wadi Railway Station against the family members of the girl, with Reghavendra as eyewitness to the murder.

Additional SP Prasanna Desai told TNIE "Shabuddin (the girl's brother) and his friend Nawaz have been arrested for murder. Both murder and caste abuse cases have been registered against them". Chittapur MLA and former minister Priyank Kharge called on the parents of the deceased on Friday and consoled his mother.

"Social welfare department has provided a compensation of Rs four lakh and will prevail upon the local body to allot a house to the aggrieved family," said Priyank.

He clarified that 'It is purely an issue between two families and no communal colour should be given to the incident".

When his attention was drawn towards BJP leaders statements that Dalits were targeted, Priyank said, "BJP is ruling both the State and the Central governments and it is the responsibility of the state government to investigate the case".

Monsoon late, to hit K'taka on June 5

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

ONSET of the most awaited southwest monsoon has been delayed due to various reasons.

The monsoon, which was to hit the mainland on May 27, with an error of plus or minus four days, has been delayed by another 4-5 days, India Meteorological Department (IMD) officials said.

"If the monsoon hits Kerala on June 1, it will hit coastal Karnataka and parts of south interior Karnataka on June 5, and by June 10, it will cover the entire state. But it seems the date of onset of the monsoon could be further delayed," IMD-Bengaluru officials said.

The official said the parameters required for declaration of the monsoon have not been met. This includes westerly windstorms at a speed of 45 kmph above mean sea level, rainfall in at least 70 per cent of the area (Kerala has 14 stations) measuring up to 2.5mm, and outgoing long wave radiation should be less than 400 watts.

Scientists are keeping track since May 10, and conditions were looking favourable for the onset, but formation of local systems and heavy downpour in most parts of Karnataka over the past week have led to a further delay. Cylone Asani was earlier proving fruitful in drawing monsoon winds, but now that has also been delayed, the official said.

There are two branches of the southwest monsoon – Arabian Sea and Bay of Bengal. There is a delay in the Arabian Sea branch, however, rainfall has advanced towards Sri Lanka side. The equatorial wind flow from the northern hemisphere needs to be persistent for the timely onset of monsoon, the official explained.

Along with thundershowers, monsoon showers in June will be near normal, as per the weather department forecast.

No tickets for 3-time poll losers, says TDP gen secy

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Vijayawada

TDP general secretary Nara Lokesh informed that those who have lost elections for three consecutive times would not be given tickets.

In an informal interaction with media persons at the Mahanadu venue on Friday, Lokesh said party chief N Chandrababu Naidu had taken this decision previously. Among other decisions, TDP has proposed a two plus one system, under which leaders who have been holding a post for two terms in a row will either be given a promotion or will be asked to take rest.

The TDP MLC said that the proposal also applies to him as he has served as the general secretary of the party thrice, and claimed that the proposed system will give more scope to the youth who have worked hard for the party.

Asked about political alliance, Lokesh said there is time to talk on electoral pacts but they are focusing on winning the hearts of the people.

People vexed with the YSRC government are aspiring for the unity of Naidu, Pawan Kalyan and others to dethrone the government, he said.

On giving 40 per cent tickets for youth in the election, he made it clear that apart from the heirs of the party leaders, youth working for the party will also be given tickets.

Asserting that party will be the supreme after the TDP comes to power, he said a system will be rolled out under which the Ministers will have to report to the party which will bridge the gap between the party and the government, he said.

After Mahanadu concludes, he said that he would expose two more massive scams that were committed by the Jagan government. He claimed that he has evidence of the scams.

PC George gets bail with rider 'no more hate speech'

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Kochi

The Kerala High Court on Friday granted bail to former MLA and Kerala Janapaksham leader P C George in the case related to making a hate speech during the Ananthapuri Hindu Maha Sammelanam on April 29. The court also granted him anticipatory bail in the hate speech case registered by Palarivattom police.

While granting bail to him in both cases, the court made it clear that he shall not make any speech or statement that would attract charges under under IPC Sections 153A (promoting enmity between different groups on grounds of religion, race, place of birth, residence) or 295A (deliberate and malicious acts intended to outrage religious feelings of any class).

George was arrested on Wednesday after the Judicial First Class Magistrate Court, Thiruvananthapuram, cancelled the bail granted to him in the case registered in Fort Police station.

While granting bail, Justice Gopinath P observed, "The fact that the petitioner is a 72-year-old man stated to be suffering from various illnesses and the fact that he had bene a member of the Kerala assembly for nearly 33 years also compels me to take the view that he is not likely to flee from justice."

The court held he should make himself available for interrogation as and when called upon in writing and he should fully co-operate with the investigation including with any scientific procedure that may be required by the prosecution.

George counsel, P Vijayabhanu, said if the entire statements made by the petitioner are taken into consideration, the offences alleged against him cannot be invoked. The petitioner is not a flight risk and the investigation into the case registered against him can be carried out without him being detained in further custody.

DG of Prosecution T A Shaji said the petitioner may indulge in similar offences if he is released on bail. The provocative speeches made by George have resulted in other incidents also, which might tend to disrupt communal harmony in the state.

HC asks govt to implement ICDS scheme

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

THE Karnataka HC on Friday directed the state government to take necessary steps to implement the Integrated Child Development Services Scheme (ICDS) without delay.

The court also directed that supply of food products, without following specifications and standards as per revised nutrition and feeding norms, should be suspended with immediate effect and supply of quality nutrition as per government order dated May 5, 2021, and circular dated July 2, 2020, should be ensured by the state government.

There are more than 50 lakh ICDS beneficiaries in the state.

A division bench of Chief Justice Ritu Raj Awasthi and Justice S R Krishna Kumar pronounced the order, which was reserved after hearing the petitions filed by Sangeeta Gadagin from Bagalkot and two others, with regard to implementation of ICDS in the state. Noting that the circular and government order indicate that they were issued in conformity and pursuant to the National Food Security Act, the court observed that withdrawal of the circular and order by passing the impugned orders will delay implementation of ICDS in the state.

In order to ensure uninterrupted quality supply of the menu of food items, the state government is directed that, if the parties fail to perform their obligation, the final products as specified in the contract should be procured at a competitive rate and supplied to Anganawadi centres, the court said.

NCB seizes heroin worth ₹52 crore

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

THE Narcotics Control Bureau (NCB), Bengaluru Zonal Unit (BZU), has seized around 35 kg of heroin along with Rs 5.8 lakh cash from a drug cartel comprising women from the North-East and their handler — a Nigerian national living in Delhi. The total worth of the seized heroin is said to be worth over Rs 52 crore in the grey market.

"On credible information, the NCB, BZU officers on May 24 apprehended a female passenger and her associate, who had arrived at the Kempegowda International Airport (KIA) from Zimbabwe, and seized seven kg heroin, which was concealed in the false bottom of a suitcase belonging to one of them," said NCB, BZU Director Amit Ghawate.

He added that during interrogation, they revealed that one similar bag was kept in a lodge in the city where they were staying. "We carried out a search in the room and recovered 6.890 kg of heroin from a bag there. On further investigation it came to light that three more lady passengers with similar consignments had boarded Bengaluru-Delhi Rajdhani Express. Further probe carried out simultaneously by the NCB teams took them to the handlers of these girls. "The handlers were identified and intercepted at KIA and their interrogation revealed that a Nigerian national living in Delhi was the kingpin of the heroin consignment," the NCB chief said.

Senior citizens stare at expensive train journeys

S LALITHA @ Bengaluru

SENIOR citizens are distraught as Railway Minister Ashwini Vaishnaw has announced that concession in train fare, which were withdrawn during the pandemic, will be permanently scrapped. The Minister has reiterated the decision at a Press meet in Chennai last week.

Seniors were hoping that as the pandemic receeds, the subsidies would be restored.

CPI MP from Kerala, Binoy Viswam on Monday urged the Railway Minister to restore it as crores of senior citizens have been affected due to its withdrawal. They were entitled to the concession for decades with men (60 years and above) given a 40 per cent discount on the ticket and women (58 years and above) get 50 per cent discount. The Minister explained that since the railways was operating at a subsidised rate with Rs 45 collected from any passenger for every Rs 100 spent towards operational expenses, the subsidies cannot be restored.

74-year-old R Rajammal said, "There are a few privileges we get as seniors. This was an important one and it must be brought back. It just shows that the government does not value its elderly," she said.

67-year-old KN Krishnaprasad, also a vocal rail activist, said, "I really hope better sense prevails on the Indian Railways soon. It is not a good decision to withdraw benefit or concession already provided."

Senior citizen Anil Verma, who had reached Cantonment railway station on Monday from Palakkad said, "I can afford the full fare and so have never availed the concession. But countless elders use them daily and therefore, it needs to be restored"

An elderly couple who had arrived at the city from Chennai wished for it. "I will really be relieved and happy if it is restored," said A Lalitha, a homemaker. Her husband, C S Padmanabhan, a retired banker said, "We had to pay Rs 600 each for our AC 3-tier ticket for this trip. It used to be Rs 450 for me and Rs 400 for my wife earlier."

CPRO, Aneesh Hegde said, "It is a policy decision by the Railways. The Zone is adhering to it. However, we still provide concessions to four categories of Divyangjans, 11 categories of patients and students."

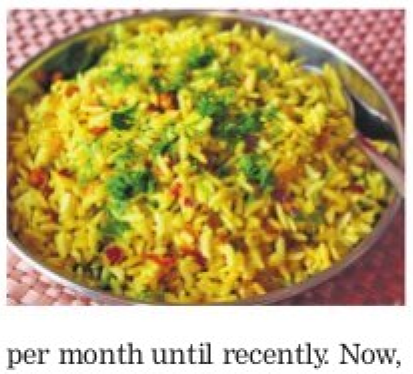
Cut down snacks, your favourite mandakki likely to cost more

MARX TEJASWI @Shivamogga



YOUR favourite snacks like churumuri, girmit, masala mandakki, khara mandakki, oggarane mandakki, bhel puri and others made from puffed rice are likely to cost more as the price of puffed rice has gone up with immediate effect.

Puffed rice is supplied across the state from Davanagere, which houses more than 800 Mandakki Bhattis (factories). These factories produce 'Neer Mandakki' variety of puffed rice which is widely consumed. Other districts like Shivamogga, Hassan Chikkamagaluru, Mysuru and other districts also house many Mandakki Bhattis.

These factories are a source of livelihood for thousands of labourers. However, the increased cost of raw material, electricity and labour have forced these factories to hike the price of puffed rice. Mohammed Akbar Ali, the president of Davanagere Mandakki Bhatti Utpadakara Kshemabhivrudhi Sangha (a welfare association of Mandakki Bhatti owners) told The New Indian Express that the association has decided to increase selling price of puffed rice from ₹260 to ₹300 per bag, which contains 105 litres of puffed rice.

Explaining the reason for the price hike, Ali said that a variety of paddy, which is suitable for making 'Neer Mandakki' has shot up from ₹1,100- ₹ 1,500 per bag to ₹1,900. "Besides, on an average, the monthly electricity bill was around Rs 1,500 per month until recently. Now, the average bill is around ₹2,500," he said.

Raheem, a corporator who also owns Mandakki Bhattis in Davanagere said that due to the ban on plastic, the availability of plastic bags has decreased. "A gunny bag costs ₹70. When compared to plastic bags, which costs ₹15 each, gunny bags are costly. Labour costs have also increased. On an average, factories pay ₹600 to per labourer everyday. Considering all these costs, the price of puffed rice has increased," he said.

Abeed, Bhadravathi based owner of a puffed rice factory, said that 'Gatti Mandakki' or Mysore Mandakki, which is another variety of puffed rice, is produced in the region. "The cost of paddy used for making this variety has increased to ₹2,200 per bag apart from electricity, labour and packaging cost. Hence, we had no way but to increase the cost from ₹330 to ₹450 per bag for the Gatti Mandakki variety," he said.

Shivanna, the owner of a puffed rice snack shop, said:"I have not decided to increase the price. But due to the rise in puffed rice prices there will be a decrease in my profit," he said.

PRESSURE ON CENTRE'S FINANCES AMID HIGH INFLATION

We are barely two months into the financial year, but it appears that the government's budgetary math is beginning to buckle. Multiple factors are exerting pressure on the Centre's finances, including the recent excise duty cuts on petrol and diesel sacrificing ₹1 lakh crore revenue, lower dividend transfer from the RBI, less-than-desirable LIC IPO proceeds, and the calling-off of BPCL privatisation—this is a setback for the disinvestment target, which itself was cut in half over the last year. As if this isn't enough, the need for additional spending such as fertiliser subsidy of ₹1.1 lakh crore and others owing to the ongoing Russia-Ukraine conflict seems to have the knife at the treasury's throat.

Starkly, the situation wasn't so different just a year ago, but a bumper tax haul lent a helping hand and despite higher expenditure, fiscal deficit is unlikely to have exceeded the budgeted 6.9% of the GDP target for FY22. Another factor that helped was the higher-than-budgeted nominal GDP. While the Centre originally pegged a growth of 17.6%, the second advance estimates show nominal growth at 19.4% in FY22.

For the current financial year, the gross fiscal deficit is pegged at 6.4% of GDP, a reduction of 50 bps over FY22. But again, this estimate is based on a 11.1% nominal GDP growth over the first advance estimates for FY22. It means even a modest 11.1% growth on the second revised estimate offers extra fiscal space straightaway. That said, it is dicey and the deficit math could swing either way. Barclays estimates an incremental fiscal shortfall of ₹4 lakh crore than what is budgeted for FY23, while ICRA believes that tax revenue may exceed the budget estimate by at least ₹1.3 lakh crore higher this fiscal, notwithstanding the excise duty cuts.

For now though, government officials have dismissed options of either capex cuts or higher borrowing, perhaps pinning hopes on higher tax and non-tax receipts. But if global headwinds continue and inflationary pressures persist, it's essential for both wings—expenditure cuts and higher borrowings—to flap together.

BIG POLITICAL CHURN IN UTTAR PRADESH

India's most populous state is witnessing fast-paced political developments that may alter equations before the next Lok Sabha polls in 2024. The rainbow coalition put together by SP president Akhilesh Yadav is falling apart. Ally O P Rajbhar of the Suheldev Bharatiya Samaj Party has criticised Akhilesh, saying the young leader cannot work hard as he loves the AC air. The SP's biggest Muslim face, Azam Khan, has avoided meeting Akhilesh after his release from jail. The Jats of western Uttar Pradesh too feel that their tie-up with Dalits works better on ground than that with the Yadavs. There are voices of opposition against Akhilesh rising from all around after the defeat in the Assembly polls.

Sensing trouble in Akhilesh's camp, BSP president Mayawati fired a salvo that took all by surprise: She criticised the prolonged incarceration of Azam Khan. Her statement is seen as an attempt to widen the difference between Akhilesh and Khan. A founding member of the SP, Khan has been upset with Akhilesh for not helping him with legal aid to get him out of jail and the two leaders have not been on talking terms. Mayawati, whose party was routed in the recent Assembly elections and won only one out of 403 seats, is keen to win back the support of the Muslim community, which had sided completely with the SP in the last poll. All eyes are focused on Khan's next move.

Akhilesh on his part has made a swift and surprising move to close flanks. He has given a Rajya Sabha seat to young Jat leader Jayant Chaudhary; the idea seems to be to stop him from jumping ship. Akhilesh also has to prevent his uncle Shivpal Yadav from poaching his flock as the latter harbours a grudge against the SP chief and is looking for the right opportunity to strike. The lineup for 2024 may look much different from 2022.

The fact that the National Statistical Office has been subject to several controversies regarding their surveys over the last few decades should be worrying

TOWARDS A DATA REVOLUTION IN OUR NATION

KARAN BHASIN

New York-based economist

SOUMYADIP SINHA

It has been a regular complaint that India's statistical infrastructure has not kept up with time and many may argue that it has in fact deteriorated. This deterioration, according to them, has not been a recent phenomenon. Nonetheless, the fact that the National Statistical Office (NSO) has been subject to several controversies regarding their surveys over the last few decades should be worrying. Is something broken with our data collection process—or is it simply that our methodologies have not evolved with time?

These are issues that are regularly discussed, and they have important implications for measurement of the impact of various policies. Take for instance the 2017–18 Consumption Expenditure Survey, which was withheld due to data quality issues. Initially, many were quick to hail the survey and its findings—this was despite warnings regarding data quality that were flagged by this author along with Dr Surjit S Bhalla. Three years have passed since, and now virtually every serious researcher accepts and acknowledges that something went wrong.

Unfortunately, we do not know what went wrong but we do hope that the NSO would investigate and address any shortcomings before the next round of the survey. The National Council of Applied Economic Research and The University of Maryland conduct a similar household survey that can be a good reference point for the NSO to evolve the methods and bring them up to date with the globally accepted best practices. To address such shortcomings will be fitting for an institution that was the pioneer in conducting household surveys in the 20th century.

The issues are not just regarding measurement and methods but also about the lag with which such datasets are made available. The unit-level data for the Periodic Labour Force Survey is a good example of this as one expected the data to be made available within a few months. This is now feasible thanks to the use of modern equipment such as tablets that can be deployed for data collection. Good data that is available at regular intervals helps with a better understanding of the present state of the economy—which is crucial for fiscal and monetary authorities to respond by way of their policy tools.

There is also an issue regarding the dissemination of these datasets that happens in a format that is unnecessarily complicated. To be able to use any of these unit-level datasets, one needs to spend about an hour just to extract it in a format so that it can be used for analysis. Some of the other government agencies such as the Indian Council of Social Science Research (ICSSR) maintain their database where they provide these data in an easier-to-use format—but again, this happens with a lag. There is no reason why the NSO cannot make these datasets available across formats used by social science researchers. Doing so will only improve the productivity of independent researchers and add to the overall research output. Hopefully, the NSO will also adopt the dissemination approach of the ICSSR and some other agencies in the near future.

It is obvious that these challenges have meant that governments too have had to devise a new way of monitoring their programmes and tracking progress. Most state governments and the Union government have therefore moved forward with building dynamic dashboards to track outcomes of key government programmes.

The way these dashboards work is simple. The nodal ministry defines the key performance indicators (KPI) for these programmes and then tracks them on a dynamic basis. As an example, for Swachh Bharat, the KPI would be the number of toilets constructed by the government. This information can be collected on a daily basis and with geo-tagging and verification methods, the data can be as reliable as it can get. Similarly, for the Awas Yojana, it will be houses constructed and for the Jal Jeevan Mission, it will be the number of households provided with a tapped water connection.

India's existing statistical architecture has done a great service for several decades as the country became a $3 trillion economy. ... While the NSO works on addressing some of the measurement issues, harnessing the large administrative datasets containing geospatial information can help plug in gaps in our understanding, while simultaneously motivating the need for newer forms of household surveys

All these dashboards ensure transparency in governance and provide for a more real-time feedback in the form of monitoring the programme implementation. Many of these dashboards developed by the Centre and various state governments are ushering in a silent data and governance revolution. These dashboards also fill the data gap between two household surveys conducted by various agencies.

India's statistical architecture is therefore unique as it comprises the NSO, one of the pioneers of household surveys and large administrative data, which is now collected for these dashboards. For a truly modern statistical architecture, it now has to work on a framework for using both kinds of data for governance. More importantly, there is a need to collect the information from all these dashboards and provide a time-series dataset available at a single place—preferably with the unit-level dataset. Doing so will help researchers and analysts better understand India's development trajectory over the last decade and more importantly help highlight areas where more work needs to be done over the coming decades.

While the NSO works on addressing some of the measurement issues, harnessing the large administrative datasets containing verified geospatial information can help plug in gaps in our understanding, while simultaneously motivating the need for newer forms of household surveys. India's existing statistical architecture has done a great service for several decades as the country became a $3 trillion economy. However, the same architecture cannot be relied upon to understand and inform policy to aid its transition to a $5 trillion and hopefully a $10 trillion economy.

KERALA, THROUGH STELLA KRAMRISCH'S EYES

JAYARAM PODUVAL

Head, Department of Art History, The Maharaja Sayajirao University of Baroda

A COUNTRY OF MANY GODS

In pre-independent India, writings on Indian art varied from that of exaltation of the ruined state of the monuments to the glorification of the symbolic concepts encased in those structures depending on which side of the fence the historian stood in the colonial discourse. James Fergusson and Percy Brown followed the archaeological, ethnographical, scientific and empirical approach with an academic aloofness that flowed in accordance with the colonial political policy of looking at India as a congregation of ethnicities rather than a nation. E B Havell and Ananda Coomaraswamy continuously stood outside the existing mainstream of European and official thought: determined to set the record right in favour of the Indians, they set up an alternate front in Orientalist scholarship," wrote Tapati Guha-Thakurta. While Coomaraswamy and Havell were busy building up the national style, their late contemporary, Stella Kramrisch, tried to bring out the regional styles into the foreground of art historical studies on India.

Among the scholars who worked on India, Kramrisch still remains the most prolific with her works on various subjects like architecture, sculpture, painting, folk art, iconography, iconology, canonical texts, contemporary art, etc. She deviated from the mainstream art history of the nation to look into the unknown, unappraised regional histories of art and wrote works such as The Pala and Sena Sculpture (1929), Nepalese Painting (1933), Kalinga Temples (1934), Arts and Crafts of Travancore (1948), The Art of Nepal and Tibet (1960), and Unknown India: Ritual Art in Tribe and Village (1968). Many of these such as the Pala-Sena sculptures and Kerala wood carvings did not figure in the discourses on Indian art prior to Kramrisch as they did not follow the "Indo-Aryan Style" of Havell nor the "National Style" of Coomaraswamy and remained excluded from art historical scrutiny.

Kramrisch's contribution lies in the fact that she, though concentrating on Tiruvitankur, envisaged the whole Kerala region as a singular cultural entity much before the political unification of the state became a reality. Kerala temple architecture and art poses a difficult art historical riddle as many features of the Karnata region and Tamil Nadu get mixed up with local building traditions and ritual requirements. A roof pattern similar to that in Kerala is seen in far-off regions like Himachal Pradesh and Nepal. The layouts of the temples appear to be closer to Sri Lanka and Gandhara rather than neighbouring Tamil Nadu. While the stone sculptures of Kerala show similarities to those in Tamil Nadu, the bronzes and wood carvings have Hoysala-like fullness and momentum (but devoid of the ornamentation). The mural paintings of Kerala trace their ancestry to the Vijayanagara and Nayaka style. All these influences are artistically woven into one style, which is characteristically Kerala, as observed by Kramrisch.

Kramrisch came to Kerala probably through her connections in Bengal and the channels of friendship between Bengal and Kerala (Travancore). The channel of connection between Bengal and Kerala passed through Madras, which was the British administrative capital in South India. Under the British administration, many officers working in Madras Presidency were transferred to other Presidencies, which led to the connections between these regions. A well-documented example is the transfer of T Madhava Rao from Travancore to Baroda and the subsequent activity of Raja Ravi Verma in the Baroda court. The same connection saw the architect Chisholm designing the Napier Museum in Trivandrum and Baroda College and Picture Gallery at Baroda. Similarly, Charles William Edgerton Cotton, the director of commercial intelligence (1903–10), was transferred to Travancore in the second decade of the 20th century. Cotton's interest in history and antiquities brought him closer to the scholars in Travancore, with whom he founded the Kerala Society in 1927. It may be also worth mentioning that C W E Cotton was working in Calcutta when E B Havell was actively involved in the cultural activities of the city as the principal of the Government College of Art and Crafts. Later, these connections were further nurtured through the invitation to O C Ganguly to deliver lectures at Trivandrum in the late 1920s and the sculptor Debi Prasad Roy Choudhury to work on the portrait of the Maharaja of Travancore.

Among the scholars who have worked on India, Kramrisch still remains the most prolific with her works on various subjects like architecture, sculpture, painting, folk art, iconography, canonical texts, contemporary art, etc. She deviated from the mainstream art history of the nation to look into the unknown, unappraised regional histories of art

Kramrisch and her biographers do not reveal much concrete information about the travelling she did in India for documenting art and architecture, but it is obvious that she traversed the length and breadth of the country looking at monuments and museums. While working on her book A Survey of Painting in the Deccan, Kramrisch is likely to have visited the Travancore and Kochi regions and met R Vasudeva Poduval, one of her co-authors of the book The Arts and Crafts of Travancore. When Kramrisch first published it with the Royal India and Pakistan Society, Poduval was at the helm of affairs of Travancore archaeology. It is quite possible that he urged Kramrisch to write on the subject.

The academic significance of a scholar in a discipline can be judged based on the respect given to the author through the writings on the same subject by later experts. Scholars such as K R Srinivasan and H Sarkar, who wrote on Kerala architecture after Kramrisch, accepted the hypothesis and nomenclature of the latter. "In a way," writes H Sarkar, "the former states of Travancore and Cochin have been served better: Kramrisch's survey of temples in the former Travancore state bring to fore some of the basic facts of the 'Kerala Style', which she prefers to distinguish from Dravida of the neighbouring Tamil Country". Many questions raised by Kramrisch regarding the origin, development and the possible connections of these regional styles to mainstream Indian art remain unanswered.

Being an art historian who has studiously gone through the works of the scholars who wrote on Kerala architecture and art, I can confidently state here that the observations of Kramrisch—whose birth anniversary falls tomorrow—still remain relevant to the study of the subject.

Vehicles on roads

This is with reference to Preventing accidents on our highways (May 26). Accidents on highways are caused mainly due to the negligence of the drivers, who sometimes exceed the speed limit and also indulge in drunken driving. The worst issue is the heavy vehicles parked on the roads. Patrolling is the only solution to prevent such accidents. This can be followed by counselling.

India for upping Afghan capability

At Dushanbe Security Dialogue, Doval says Afghan key to fight on terror, India a stakeholder

YESHI SELI @ New Delhi

INDIA has called for enhancing the capability of war-torn Afghanistan to counter terrorism and terrorist groups that pose a threat to regional peace and security.

National Security Advisor Ajit Doval made India's position clear at the fourth round of Dushanbe Security Dialogue on Afghanistan, in Dushanbe. "India was and is an important stakeholder in Afghanistan," said Doval.

"India's special relationship with the people of Afghanistan over centuries will guide India's approach, nothing can change this,'' Doval said. He met his counterparts from other participating countries on the sidelines of the meeting.

The meeting was attended by heads of national security councils of Russia (Nikolai Patrushev), China (Cheng Guoping), Iran (Ali Shamkhani), Tajikistan (Nasrullo Mahmoudzoda), Kazakhstan (Aset Isekhev), Uzbekistan (Viktor Mahmoudov) and Kyrgyzstan (Marat Imonkulov).

"The priority should be the right to life and a dignified living as well as protection of human rights in Afghanistan. Assistance should be accessible to all,'' Doval said.

Pakistan was not present in the forum, as the newly elected government under PM Shehbaz Sharif is yet to appoint a national security advisor.

India has supported Afghanistan in developing infrastructure, which has improved connectivity over the years. Since August 2021, India has provided 17000 MT of wheat out of a commitment of 50,000 MT and also 50 lakh doses of Covaxin, 13 tonnes of lifesaving medicines, 60 million doses of polio vaccine and winter clothing.

India also threw light on the significance of women and minorities in nation-building. "Provision of education to girls and employment to women and youth will ensure productivity and spur growth,'' Doval further said.

Top US official on India trip over oil import from Russia

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

THE US has commenced its efforts to try to wean India off its oil imports from Russia. Elizabeth Rosenberg, Assistant Secretary for Terrorist Financing and Financial Crimes at the US Department of Treasury, will travel to Delhi and Mumbai following President Biden's call for all-encompassing sanctions on Russia.

"Assistant Secretary Rosenberg is travelling to New Delhi and Mumbai as a part of a continued Treasury effort to engage with partners and allies around the implementation and enforcement of the unprecedented multilateral sanctions and export controls on Russia for its war on Ukraine," a US Embassy spokesperson told this newspaper.

India imports less than 1 per cent of its crude from Russia, contrary to some countries in the European Union, which have upped imports.

"Amid the continuing conflict in Ukraine, India is trying to secure its own interests as all European nations are,'' said Union Minister of Commerce, Piyush Goyal at Davos recently.

EU countries are importing larger quantities of petroleum products from Russia. Italy, for instance, has increased its imports from Russia, which has exported 450,000 barrels of crude per day to Italy this month — more than four times of what they imported in February and the highest ever since 2013. Italy is slated to overtake the Netherlands as the EU's largest import hub for seaborne Russian crude.

"In the current situation, when inflation is at an all-time high, causing stress to people all over the world, EU and European countries continue to buy larger quantities than India ever thought of buying,'' Goyal added.

According to sources, Secretary Rosenberg is expected to meet government officials and also members of the petroleum industry in the public and private sector.

CULTURE MINISTRY TO STUDY 'RACIAL PURITY' OF INDIANS

CHANDAN NANDY @ New Delhi

THE Ministry of Culture is in the process of acquiring an array of DNA profiling kits and associated state-of-the-art machines for establishing the genetic history and "trace the purity of races in India".

Highly placed government sources said the acquisition process began recently following a meeting that Ministry of Culture Secretary Govind Mohan held with well-known archaeologist Professor Vasant S Shinde and senior scientists and scholars of the Lucknow-based Birbal Sahani Institute of Paleosciences (BSIP) in Hyderabad two months ago.

Shinde is adjunct professor at the Bangalore-based National Institute of Advanced Study and director of the Rakhigarhi Research Project. Founder of the Society of South Asian Archaeology, Prof Shinde's research contribution includes "DNA analysis and craniofacial reconstruction of Harappan People".

When contacted over phone, Prof Shinde admitted that the gadgets were in the process of being acquired. He said, "We want to see how mutation and mixing of genes in the Indian population has happened in the last 10,000 years. Genetic mutation depends on the intensity of contact among populations and the time that this process takes. We will then have a clear-cut idea of the genetic history. You may even say that this will be an effort to trace the purity of races in India."

The Kolkata-based Anthropological Survey of India (ANSI), which has, "of late", expressed "disinclination" to proceed with the exercise to trace the genetic origins of early Indians because the issue is "politically loaded", is also part of this project which was initially conceived in 2019.

A budget of ₹10 crore has been earmarked for procuring the DNA profilers and the other related scientific gadgets, sources said.

The aim, according to the ANSI, is to "develop a resource of cell lines and DNA samples that can be used to study DNA sequence polymorphism in contemporary Indian populations".

More importantly, the ANSI seeks to "establish (the) Indian role in the dispersal of modern humans out of Africa" because "modern humans could have taken the 'southern route of dispersal', utilising the coastlines to travel from Africa, through Arabia, across the Indian subcontinent and then into South-East Asia and finally into Australia".

Secondly, the ANSI wants to understand the genetic diversity of Indian populations among various ethnic groups in different regions of India based on direct re-sequencing of haploid genomes.

By its own admission, under this project, the ANSI has studied 75 communities comprising 7,807 blood samples from different parts of the country. These communities include the Jarawa, Nicobarese, Andh, Kathodi, Madia, Malpaharia, Munda, Bhoi Khasi, Nihal, Toto, Dirang Monpa, Paitei, Lepcha and a host of others.

Previous governments ignored use of technology in governance: Modi

PM Narendra Modi flies a drone at the inauguration of the Bharat Drone Mahotsav at Pragati Maidan in New Delhi | PTI

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR @ New Delhi

PRIME Minister Narendra Modi on Friday blamed previous governments for being "indifferent" towards the use of technology, saying efforts were made to project tech development as anti-poor.

Speaking at the Bharat Drone Mahotsav, the PM said before he came to power in 2014, governments created an "environment of indifference towards technology in governance due to which the poor and the middle class suffered the most."

"Technology development was considered a part of the problem and projected as anti-poor," he said. The present government, he said, has removed all the fear-factors on the larger use of technology for development. The government has ensured last-mile delivery of services with the help of technology, including drones, in the last eight years", said the PM. He asserted that India had the potential of becoming a global drone hub.

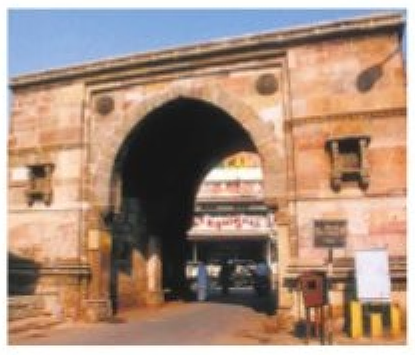
"Technology was considered having no place in the lives of ordinary people. By discarding this type of mindset in governance, the present government has taken many steps to make technology accessible and available to everyone," he said.

Citing an example of PM Swamitva Yojna, he explained how drones helped to deliver. "There was a time when people spent hours standing in line for rations. For the first time, every property in villages is being digitally mapped and 65 lakh digital property cards have been generated using drone technology", the PM said.

He said various initiatives in governance could be run using drone technology.

PM is Dronacharya of drones: Scindia

NEW DELHI: The drone industry in India is to take a quantum jump for touching a turnover of `15,000 crore by 2026, claimed Union Civil Aviation Minister Jyotiraditya Scindia. Scindia said the drone technology is currently being used in 12 departments of the Central government and 14 state governments. Describing PM Modi as "Dronacharya of drones" in India, Scindia said: "There are 270 drone startups in the country now and it is estimated that the drone industry will touch turnover of `15,000 crore by 2026."



Monuments authority stumped by builder

PARVEZ SULTAN @ New Delhi

A surprise visit to a proposed construction site near 15th century Raipur Gate in Ahmedabad stumped a team of the National Monument Authority (NMA) as it found a freshly built two-storey structure already standing at the place for which mandatory 'no objection certificate' (NOC) was sought.

The purpose of the visit was to assess whether permission for the construction activities at the plot located in the proximity of the heritage site could be granted. Upset with the 'development', authority chairman Tarun Vijay, who led the team, initiated action against government officials and the building owner.

"The case of a property located in the Siddhi Ni Pole area of Ahmedabad near the protected gateway was discussed in the meeting. The Competent Authority (CA) of NMA had already recommended NOC for the construction, however, the three-member committee observed irregularities. Hence, it was decided to carry out a field visit before issuing a final nod. Vijay along with another member of NMA and local officials of Archeological Survey of India went to the spot on Thursday. They were shocked to see the structure had already been built at the site though mandatory permission was not given," said an official.

Vijay said that it was a blatant violation of Ancient Monuments and Archaeological Sites and Remains Act (AMASR) Act and due disciplinary action would be taken against the wrong-doers.

Raipur Gate, one of the 18 gates of the fort built around the second half of 15th century, is a notified national monument. The fort was built by Ahmad Shah I, who was a ruler of the Muzaffarid dynasty.

'Extra-judicial confession can't be basis for conviction'

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ New Delhi

EXTRA-JUDICIAL confession allegedly by the co-accused loses its significance in the absence of any substantive evidence against the accused and there cannot be any conviction based on such confession, the Supreme Court said on Friday.

The apex court further said that an extra-judicial confession attains "greater credibility and evidentiary value" if it is supported by a chain of cogent circumstances and is further corroborated by other prosecution evidence.

In the judgment, the bench also observed that an accused "must be" and not merely "may be" guilty before a court can convict him and the conclusions of guilt arrived at must be sure conclusions and must not be based on vague conjectures.

The court made this remark while acquitting an accused, who had challenged the Chhattisgarh High Court judgment confirming his conviction and life term imposed upon him by a trial court for the alleged offence of murder.

A bench of Justices D Y Chandrachud and Bela M Trivedi directed that he be set free forthwith.

"In absence of any substantive evidence against the accused, the extra-judicial confession allegedly made by the co-accused loses its significance and there cannot be any conviction based on such extra-judicial confession of the co-accused," the bench said in its judgment.

The bench also noted that the apex court has consistently held that an extra-judicial confession is a weak kind of evidence and unless it inspires confidence or is fully corroborated by some other evidence of clinching nature, ordinarily conviction for the offence of murder should not be made only on the evidence of extra-judicial confession.

It said that the entire chain of circumstances, on which the conclusion of guilt is to be drawn, should be fully established and should not leave any reasonable ground for the conclusion consistent with the innocence of the accused.

Women, kids 'vulnerable witnesses'

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

THE Supreme Court on Friday said the issue pertaining to vulnerable witnesses directly concerns the plight of women and children as they are in a 'position of vulnerable witnesses' and impleaded the Ministry of Women and Child Development (WCD) as a party in the matter which relates to the preparation of a uniform national model for Vulnerable Witness Deposition Centres (VWDC).

The apex court said the ministry shall continue to coordinate all activities in consultation with the chairperson of the court-appointed committee.

A vacation bench of Justices D Y Chandrachud and Bela M Trivedi observed that the top court had earlier said that the Ministry of Women and Child Development must be the nodal ministry and it wants the ministry to monitor it.

"The ministry of WCD has been nominated as a coordinating ministry having due regard to the fact that the issue pertaining to vulnerable witnesses directly concerns the plight of women and children who are, generally speaking, in the position of vulnerable witnesses," the bench said adding that the WCD ministry shall stand impleaded.

The apex court on April 8 had requested the Chief Justices of all high courts to respond within six weeks to the model guidelines prepared by former Jammu and Kashmir Chief Justice Gita Mittal led panel so that their suggestions could be factored in the preparation of a uniform national model.

"Now, what is the point in foisting the obligation on the Department of Justice? The Department of Justice generally looks after the court infrastructure. We want the Ministry of Women and Child Development to monitor it," the bench said.

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

CALLING the CBI raids on his properties as "targeted intimidation" and "breach of privilege" of a member of Parliament, Karti Chidambaram, the Congress MP from Tamil Nadu's Sivaganga, on Friday wrote to Lok Speaker Speaker Om Birla alleging that during the raids highly confidential Parliament notes were seized.

He also said that he and his family have been targets of a "relentless" campaign by the present government and its investigating agencies which are "trying to silence the voices of dissent".

Karti has been questioned by the CBI in a case related to allegations of bribe in issuance of visas to 263 Chinese workers in 2011.

He alleged that the CBI seized his "highly confidential and sensitive personal notes and papers" pertaining to the Parliamentary Standing Committee for Information and Technology.

Don't need babus on the mat: Locals in Ladakh, NE

Transfer of IAS couple to the Himalayan regions draws criticism

PRASANTA MAZUMDAR & FAYAZ WANI @ Srinagar/Guwahati

MIDDLE-rank IAS officers punished by the government are often dispatched to 'non-family stations' such as Ladakh or locations in the North-East. A similar fate perhaps awaited IAS couple Sanjeev Khirwar and Rinku Dugga.

While Khirwar has been 'penalised' with a posting in Ladakh, Dugga is being sent off to Arunachal Pradesh. The government action, has however, gone against the sentiments of people who say their places aren't meant for the babus on the mat.

The couple earned public ire because they closed the government-run Thyagraj Stadium in Delhi before the scheduled time so that they could walk their pet at the facility.

Konchok Stanzin, a Ladakh politician and councillor Chushul, said Ladakh should not be treated as a punishment posting. "Ladakh needs a better IAS officer because the elected representatives have no real authority to run the UT. For us, a difficult time has already begun," tweeted Stanzin.

Sajjad Kargili, a politician and civil society activist from Kargil who unsuccessfully contested 2019 Lok Sabha elections from Ladakh, said transferring an IAS officer on a punishment posting to Ladakh shows lack of seriousness of the Centre towards the sensitive region that shares borders with China and Pakistan.

"Ladakh needs upright and efficient officers. The centre needs to send efficient officers to Ladakh. Instead, it is sending officers found violating rules. Anybody in India who is incompetent is sent to Ladakh on a punishment posting," Kargili said.

In the North-East, Twitter users were aflame. "The North-East is a beautiful place, not meant for punishing an officer," tweeted Pradyot Manikya Debbarma, the chief of Tripura Indigenous Progressive Regional Alliance. "The mindset of the mainlanders will never change – the North-East is also considered as a punishment or retirement posting for ageing politician as governor," Debbarma, who belongs to Tripura's royal family, tweeted.

Manoranjan Pegu tweeted: "This transfer is being celebrated because people still view North-East India as 'jungle', 'extreme', remote places where people should go only for punishment. Delhi's discards get space in Arunachal."

Senior journalist Karma Paljor tweeted, "We are not and will not be the Siberia for the rest of India."

CBI summons Rubaiya in her abduction case

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

A special CBI court on Friday summoned Rubaiya Sayeed, daughter of former Jammu and Kashmir Chief Minister Mufti Mohammed Sayeed, on July 15 in a case about abduction by terrorists in 1989.

Sayeed, who lives in Chennai, has been listed as a prosecution witness by the Central Bureau of Investigation, which took over the probe in 1990. Kashmiri separatist leader Yasin Malik, chief of the banned Jammu and Kashmir Liberation Front (JKLF) who was recently sentenced to life imprisonment over terror funding charges, is an accused in the abduction case.

This is the first time Sayeed has been asked to appear in the case relating to her abduction. She was kidnapped on Dec. 8, 1989, and freed from captivity after five days after the then V P Singh government, supported by the BJP at the Centre, released five JKLF terrorists in her exchange.

The case was revived after Malik was picked up by the National Investigation Agency in 2019 on charges of terror funding. In January last year, the CBI, along with Special Public Prosecutors Monika Kohli and S K Bhat, framed charges against 10 people, including Malik, in the kidnapping case.

The release of the terrorists in exchange of her freedom became a turning point in the history of unrest in the Valley, serving as a morale booster for terror groups.

Youth's body to be exhumed after HC order

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Srinagar

THE Jammu & Kashmir and Ladakh High Court on Friday ordered the exhumation of the body of Amir Magray, who was among the four persons killed in Hyderpora encounter in November last year. The court also ordered the J&K government to pay Rs 5 lakh to Amir's family if the body is highly putrefied and not in deliverable state.

The High Court on Friday allowed the petition filed by Amir's father, Mohammad Latief Magray on handing over the body of the slain youth to the family for his proper burial as per Islamic rituals at his native place, Ramban.

After the encounter on Nov. 15 last year, the police had identified Pakistani militant Haider Bhai, his associate Amir, Dr Mudasir Gul and businessman Altaf Bhat as the slain persons, and buried their bodies in a graveyard in Handwara near Srinagar. However, bodies of Altaf and Dr Mudasir were later exhumed and handed over to their families.

Amir's family had been pleading his innocence. Latief is a protected person and had fought against militants.

Sacked Punjab health minister sent to 14-day judicial custody

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Chandigarh

FORMER Punjab Health Minister Vijay Singla was on Friday sent to 14-day judicial custody. His nephew, Pardeep Kumar, who was also Singla's OSD, has also been sent to judicial custody till June 10. The next date of hearing in the case is June 10.

Advocate H S Dhanoa, the counsel for Singla, said the two will be sent to Rupnagar jail. Both Singla and Pardeep have agreed to give their voice samples.

Earlier, the court had sent Singla to three-day police custody till Friday.

Singla. 52, was arrested on corruption charges on Tuesday after Chief Minister Bhagwant Mann sacked him following accusations that he was demanding two per cent commission in tenders and purchases by his department.

Singla and Kumar were booked on the basis of a complaint by Punjab Health System Corporation superintending engineer Rajinder Singh. The officer had alleged that the duo had demanded ₹1.16 crore in bribe for the allotment of projects and two per cent commission in government contracts.

Before being taken to the court, Singla told reporters that there seems to be a conspiracy hatched by some "outsider forces" behind the charges against him.

Haryana ex-CM Chautala gets 4 yrs in prison; ₹50 lakh fine

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

FORMER Haryana Chief Minister Om Prakash Chautala was on Friday sentenced to four years rigorous imprisonment and a fine of ₹ 50 lakh by a special judge for CBI cases for possessing disproportionate assets.

The 87-year-old Indian National Lok Dal (INLD) supremo, who in the past had served five terms as Haryana chief minister, was last week found guilty of possessing disproportionate assets in a case lodged against him by the CBI over 16 years ago.

According to a CBI statement, a case was registered against Chautala and others on the basis of allegations that as Haryana chief minister between July 1999 and March 2005, he colluded with some of his family members to accumulate both movable and immovable assets in his names and that of his family members. The CBI registered a case on April 3, 2006.

A chargesheet filed on March 26, 2010, after completion of investigations showed that the extent of disproportionate assets was more than ₹6 crore, which was 189 per cent of his income.

The trial court found Chautala guilty of possessing disproportionate assets to the tune of ₹2.81 crore (103 per cent of his income) and convicted him on May 21 this year.

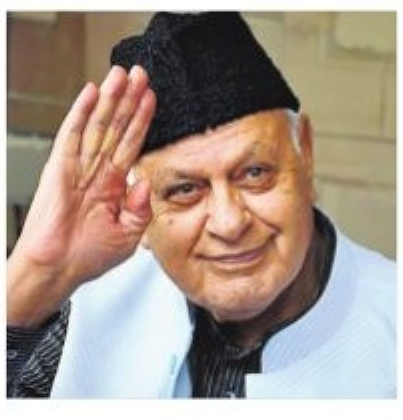
The case against Chautala stemmed from a Supreme Court order of Nov. 25, 2003, transferring the investigation of the JBT teacher recruitment scam to the CBI. The allegation against Chautala was that his government at the time took bribes to recruit junior basic trained (JBT) teachers by using forged documents between 1999 and 2000.

During its probe, the CBI found a "memorandum of chargesheet" against Chautala that contained details of his assets. It reflected a list of 43 movable and immovable properties, supposedly valued at ₹1,467 crore. The memorandum, which was the foundation of the case against Chautala, was signed by the then Haryana Chief Minister Bhupinder Singh Hooda. Subsequently, the Enforcement Directorate too invesigated the money trail.

J&K scam: ED summons Farooq Abdullah in cricket money laundering case

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @New Delhi

NATIONAL Conference Lok Sabha MP and former Jammu and Kashmir Chief Minister Farooq Abdullah will present himself before the Enforcement Directorate (ED) on May 31 in connection with an alleged money laundering case linked to financial irregularities in the J&K Cricket Association.



According to ED officials, Abdullah recorded his statement in the case three years ago.

The National Conference (NC), which Abdullah heads, said the 84-year-old leader will continue to cooperate with the ED as he "has in the past".

"ED summons to JKNC president Dr Farooq Abdullah nothing new; this is common for all opposition parties in India. He has continued to maintain his innocence in the matter and has cooperated with the investigative agencies and will do so in this case as well," the NC posted on Twitter.

PDP president Mehbooba Mufti said "it was crystal clear that the voice of the opposition was being muzzled with the help of central probe agencies like the CBI and the Enforcement Directorate (ED)".

The ED has questioned Abdullah in connection with the multi-crore JKCA scam case in the past.

It was earlier alleged that the Board of Control for Cricket in India (BCCI) had given ₹112 crore to the JKCA for promoting cricket in the erstwhile state between 2011 and 2012 and that ₹46.30 crore from that grant was misappropriated.

Two cricketers — Majid Yaqoob Dar and Nissar Ahmad Khan — filed a PIL in the Jammu & Kashmir and Ladakh High Court in 2015. Subsequently, the case was handed over to the CBI to probe alleged embezzlement of funds at JKCA headed by Abdullah at that time.

Last year, the CBI filed a chargesheet in a Srinagar court against Abdullah and others accused in the case. Abdullah's assets worth ₹11.86 crore were attached in 2020.

Tribal man accused of witchcraft, kills self after being made to eat excreta

PRONAB MONDA @Kolkata

A 67-year-old tribal man killed himself on Thursday after he, and five others, were forced to consume human excreta following a verdict issued by a kangaroo court in West Bengal for allegedly practising witchcraft.

The six persons, including two children and a woman, were held responsible for the death of a girl suffering from ailments at a tribal-dominated village in Murshidabad district's Mathurapur. The child was taken to a ojha, a self-healer who treats people through supernatural power.

"When the girl died, the ojha said she fell victim of black magic. The six persons were held responsible for the witchcraft," a police officer said.

The village heads called for a kangaroo court on Wednesday, summoning the six persons. ''Blinded by faith, the members of the court concluded that the child's death was because of black magic performed by the six persons. In the court, they were beaten up,'' said the police officer.

The family members of Manik Sardar (67), the deceased, alleged that he could not bear the humiliation of the punishment. "He locked himself up in a room and in the morning, his body was found hanging from the bamboo-ceiling with a rope tied around his neck. He killed himself because of the torture at the kangaroo court,'' a family member said.

One of the two women, who was also accused, said, ''We were completely in dark about the child's death. We are like any other daily wage earners. But we were branded as black magicians.''

Aby Tayeb, block development officer, said, "We will organise an awareness campaign shortly. We keep educating villagers to visit nearest healthcare units, instead of going to ojhas.'' Police has detained the village head and a tribal man for interrogation. The ojha was at large till Friday night.

Sambhajiraje said he refused Maharashtra Chief Minister Uddhav Thackeray's offer to join Shiv Sena and then get the nomination from Sena's quota. Criticising Thackeray for "not honouring" his word, he added, "For me, the Rajya Sabha seat is not the issue. People's welfare is more important for me. I will go on a statewide tour to strengthen the idea of 'Swarajya'."

Panchayat polls: Chouhan announces awards for villages that elect women

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bhopal

SAMRASTA (harmony) through unopposed election of village sarpanchs and gram panchayats will be the buzzword in the three-tier panchayat polls in Madhya Pradesh, whose poll schedule was announced by the State Election Commission on Friday.

Just before State Election Commissioner BP Singh announced the schedule for the panchayat polls to be held in three phases between June 25 and July 8, Chief Minister Shivraj Singh Chouhan on Friday announced a slew of incentives for the gram panchayats that will not only elect their heads and members unopposed, but particularly elect women as sarpanch and panch unopposed.

"It has been seen that local body polls, particularly in the villages (panchayats) not only lead to competition between candidates, but the contest even turns into conflicts and after the polls are over, such conflicts sometimes turn into violent feuds," Chouhan said. "In the last panchayat polls, many villages had unanimously decided to elect their sarpanch and panch unopposed. Such a harmonious development is possible even in these polls. We've decided to bracket such panchayats this time as Samrasta Panchayats and model villages."

The villages that elect their sarpanch unopposed will get ₹5 lakh, while those which elect their sarpanch unopposed for the second time in row will get ₹7 lakh, the CM announced. The village panchayats that elect their sarpanch and panch unopposed will also get ₹7 lakh.

Reiterating that his government was committed to empowerment of women, the CM announced, a bigger bonanza of ₹12 lakh for village panchayats, where only women are elected as sarpanch and panch, and ₹15 lakh to all those village panchayats, which elect women as sarpanch and panch unopposed sans elections.

"We would be happy if the same formula is followed in the urban local body polls also," Chouhan said.

RUSSIA CLOSES IN ON KEY UKRAINE CITY

Offensive ramped up in Severodonetsk. Pro-Moscow forces claim capture of Lyman in Kyiv-controlled territory

LYSYCHANSK

RUSSIAN forces were closing in Friday on the strategic city of Severodonetsk in a relentless offensive to control Ukraine's Donbas region, bombing residential areas and claiming the capture of a key town.

At least nine people were killed in shelling of Kharkiv, Ukraine's second-largest city, raising fears that Russia had not lost interest in the north-eastern hub even after Ukraine managed to take back control. Around 10 people were also killed in Russian strikes on a military facility in the central Ukrainian city of Dnipro, well away from the frontline of the offensive, the regional head of the national guard said.

Three months after Russia launched its invasion on February 24, leaving thousands dead on both sides and forcing 6.6 million Ukrainians out of the country, Moscow is focusing on the east of Ukraine after failing in its initial ambition to capture Kyiv.

Russian forces were closing in on Severodonetsk and also Lysychansk, which stand on the crucial route to Ukraine's eastern administrative centre in Kramatorsk.

"Russia is pressuring the Severodonetsk pocket although Ukraine retains control of multiple defended sectors, denying Russia full control of the Donbas," the British defence ministry said in its latest briefing.

Oleksandr Stryuk, the head of the military and civilian administration of Severodonetsk, said two-thirds of its perimeter was already occupied by Russian forces and its chemical factory Azot had been bombed.

"The Russians have been trying to capture the city for a week-and-a-half. It is resisting thanks to the incredible efforts of our fighters," he added, describing the Russian bombing as "incessant."

Pro-Russian separatists said they had captured Lyman, a town between Severodonetsk and Kramatorsk, on the road leading to the key cities still under Kyiv's control.

Lugansk regional governor Sergiy Gaiday said at least five civilians had been killed in his region -- part of Donbas -- in the last 24 hours alone. Four had been killed in Severodonetsk and one in Komyshovakha, 50 kilometres (30 miles) away, he said, accusing Russia of "ceaselessly shelling residential areas." AFP

Harassment accused lawmaker to lead ultra-nationalist party

Moscow: Leonid Slutsky, a Russian lawmaker accused by journalists and the spokeswoman of the foreign ministry of sexual harassment, was elected chairman of the ultra-nationalist Liberal Democratic Party on Friday. The election took place after the death of the Kremlin-friendly party's leader Vladimir Zhirinovsky. In 2018, many woman journalists and spokeswoman Maria Zakharova had accused Slutsky, the current head of parliament's international affairs committee and member of Moscow's team of negotiators with Ukraine, of sexual harassment and inappropriate sexual conduct.

Russian politicos in hot water over calls to end war

MOSCOW

TWO Communist lawmakers in Russia on Friday urged President Vladimir Putin to end Moscow's offensive in Ukraine in a rare public show of dissent, causing an uproar at the meeting of the assembly of Primorsky Krai region.

"If our country does not halt the military operation then there will be even more orphans in our country," lawmaker Leonid Vasyukevich read from a statement. However, several lawmakers and governor Oleg Kozhemyako tried to silence him. Oleg accused Vasyukevich of tarnishing the army's reputation and called him a traitor. Several lawmakers then voted to strip Vasyukevich and Gennady Shulga, who backed the appeal, of the right to speak at the session. The head of local Communist faction Anatoly Dolgachev said the move had not been agreed with the party and promised to take "the toughest measures." AFP

US senators' group discusses expanded gun background checks, red flag laws

A makeshift memorial for the shooting victims outside Robb Elementary School in Uvalde, Texas, on Friday | AFP

RED FLAG LAWS

Aim to take firearms away from people who may harm themselves or others. Many states have adopted them, including Florida and Maine, which has a 'yellow flag' law. Maine Senator Susan Collins, a moderate Republican, has pushed for something similar on the federal level.

EXPANDED CHECKS

For all commercial gun sales, including at gun shows and on the internet. At present, background checks are required only when guns are purchased from federally licensed dealers. The idea has wide public support, even from many gun owners.

ASSAULT WEAPONS BAN

The ban passed in the 1990s expired 10 years later. Democrats have not been able to muster the votes to pass another one.

WASHINGTON

A BIPARTISAN group of senators is considering how Congress should respond to the horrific shooting of 19 children and two teachers in Uvalde, Texas, restarting gun control talks that have broken down many times before.

Aware of the difficulty of their task, the Democrats and Republicans say they hope to find agreement on legislation that could help reduce the number of mass shootings in the US. The Uvalde shooting came 10 days after a gunman opened fire in a racist attack killing Black people at a Buffalo, New York, supermarket.

Senators have narrowed the discussion to a few ideas, some of them based on legislation they have been working on for years, such as expanded background checks or red flag laws that keep guns away from people who could do harm. Led by Democratic Sen. Chris Murphy of Connecticut, the group of 10 is hoping to negotiate a proposal over the Senate's upcoming recess and have it ready for a vote at the beginning of June.

It is uncertain if the group can come to consensus, and even if they do, winning enough votes from Republicans could prove difficult, as most do not want to see changes in gun laws. Democrats would need 10 Republican votes to overcome a filibuster and get a bill through the 50-50 Senate.

"Odds are against us, but we owe it to parents and kids to try," tweeted Murphy, who has been a lead advocate for stricter gun control since 20 children and six educators were killed at Sandy Hook Elementary School in Newtown, Connecticut, in 2012. AP

HUSBAND OF SLAIN TEACHER DIES 'DUE TO GRIEF'

Washington: The husband of a fourth grade teacher who was killed protecting her students during the Texas school shooting has died. A GoFundMe page set up by Debra Austin, who said she was the cousin of teacher Irma Garcia, said Irma's husband Joe "passed away this morning" (May 26) as a result of medical emergency." "I believe Joe died of a broken heart and losing the love of his life," she said. AFP

US CHURCH GROUP RELEASES ABUSERS' LIST

WASHINGTON

LEADERS of the Southern Baptist Convention (SBC), the Us' largest Protestant denomination, published a 205-page list on Thursday of ministers and other church workers who have been accused of sexual abuse.

The release of the list comes days after an independent investigation said the church had for years suppressed reports of sexual abuse against priests and church staff.

"This list is being made public for the first time as an initial, but important, step towards addressing the scourge of sexual abuse and implementing reform in the Convention," the SBC said in a statement. Investigative firm Guidepost's probe, published on Sunday, found that for nearly two decades, survivors and advocates who sounded the alarm over sexual misconduct faced "resistance, stonewalling, and even hostility" from members of the church's executive committee.

On Thursday, the SBC said it hoped "churches will utilise this list proactively to protect and care for the most vulnerable among us." The newly released list contains hundreds of entries — some of them partially or fully redacted — detailing allegations, convictions and some cases that were not reported to the police. AFP

Italy's Catholic Church orders child abuse study

Rome: Italy's Catholic Church on Friday announced a study into 20 years of internal records on clerical child sex abuse, a step survivors say falls short of their demands for independent inquiry. "It's our duty faced with so much suffering," Cardinal Matteo Zuppi, named by Pope Francis to lead Italy's Bishops' Conference, told reporters. In a statement, the Bishops' Conference said there would be an "analysis" on alleged or confirmed crimes by clerics in Italy from 2000 to 2021. It will use data kept by the Congregation for the Doctrine of the Faith, the Vatican department that deals with issues of abuse, to establish a "more objective knowledge of the phenomenon." AFP

Lower RBI payout to govt for higher provision

In FY22, RBI paid dividend of ₹30,307.45 cr to the govt, which is 69.42% lower than ₹99,122 cr it had paid in FY21

RAM SAHGAL @ New Delhi

THE sharply lower dividend payout by the Reserve Bank of India (RBI) to the government in FY22 was due to higher provisions made in keeping with an expanded balance sheet, which grew 8.46% on-year, reflecting the central bank's liquidity and forex operations during the year.

In the fiscal year 2021-22, RBI paid dividend of just ₹30,307.45 crore to the government, which is 69.42% lower than the ₹99,122 crore it had paid in FY21 . This was because transfer to the contingency fund totalled ₹1.14 lakh crore in FY22 as compared to ₹20,710 crore in the preceding fiscal year. The central bank's balance sheet increased to ₹61.9 lakh crore in FY22 from ₹57.07 lakh crore in the preceding fiscal, which was for nine months as RBI changed its accounting year to April-March from July-June.

Liquidity operations included buying government bonds and absorbing excess rupees from banks through the reverse repo window. When the cental bank sucks out liquidity it pays an interest to banks, which reflects in the liability side of its balance sheet.

Similarly , forex operations included buying dollar from banks to cushion the rupee, which has faced the brunt of a jump in crude oil prices and FII sales on Indian stock markets.

The RBI's income jumped to ₹1.6 lakh crore in FY22 from ₹1.33 lakh crore FY21, mainly on account of interest it received from holding government bonds and revaluation of gold and forex reserves. Interest from loans and advances rose to ₹2.09 lakh crore in FY22 from ₹1.35 lakh crore . Gold reserves value rose to ₹3.22 lakh crore from ₹2.48 lakh crore.

However, expenditure rose to almost ₹1.3 lakh crore from ₹34,146.75 crore, mainly due to provisions of ₹1.14 lakh crore as per the Bimal Jalan formula which was transferred to the contingency fund.

RBI's income rises to ₹1.6 lakh cr in FY22 from ₹1.33 lakh cr in FY21, mainly on account of interest it received from holding govt bonds and revaluation of gold and forex reserves. Interest from loans and advances rose to ₹2.09 lakh cr

LOWERS 2022 GDP GROWTH FORECAST

Taiwan's economy is likely to grow at a slower pace this year that initially forecast, the statistics office said on Friday, downgrading its outlook due to global inflation and COVID-19 dampening consumer demand at home and abroad. The downward revision came even as the statistics office raised its export growth forecast for this year, with continued strong demand for the island's technology products buoyed by 5G, electric vehicles and high end computing. GDP is expected to rise 3.91% this year, the Directorate General of Budget, Accounting and Statistics said, down from 4.42% growth forecast in February. That will be a slower pace than the 6.45% logged for 2021, which was the fastest rate in over a decade since it expanded 10.25% in 2010. The directorate said Taiwan's surge in COVID-19 infections and inflation driven by the war in Ukraine were affecting consumers, even as demand for semiconductors, the main plank of Taiwan's economy, remained strong. It said consumption at home will be "greatly" impacted by the spike in cases, leading to a 0.5-0.7% downward revision to growth this year. It now sees exports rising 14.62% this year, from 9.69% predicted earlier.

PHILIPPINE

INCOMING FINMIN DOESN'T FAVOUR TAX HIKES

Philippine central bank governor Benjamin Diokno, who takes on a new role as finance secretary next month, said on Friday he does not favour raising taxes even as the incoming government is set to inherit a huge pile of debt. Diokno, who is President-elect Ferdinand Marcos' choice to lead the finance ministry, would rather see an improvement in tax administration and collection, including reducing corruption through digitalisation, he said. Diokno's comments should help ease concerns among labour groups, which have opposed proposals by the outgoing government to impose more excise taxes on oil, defer scheduled tax cuts, and remove some value-added tax exemptions. The tax system has already undergone reform in the past six years after incumbent President Rodrigo Duterte's government lowered corporate and personal income taxes while raising levies on tobacco and alcohol products. The new Marcos administration is inheriting 11.7 trillion pesos ($224 billion) in government debt, equivalent to 60.5% of gross domestic product as of the end of 2021, the highest ratio in 16 years, fuelled by borrowing to address the COVID-19 pandemic. The debt level was almost double the 6.4 trillion pesos of liabilities when Duterte took office in June 2016, government data showed.

THAILAND

APRIL EXPORTS MISS FORECAST

THAILAND'S exports in April rose at a much slower pace than the previous month and less than expected, commerce ministry data showed on Friday, coming under the pressure of Russia's invasion of Ukraine and China's lockdown measures. Exports, a key driver of Thai growth, rose 9.9% in April from a year earlier, missing a forecast 14.6% rise in a Reuters poll, and against March's 19.5% jump. Shipments should continue to rise this year, benefiting from a weak baht and an expected rise in food exports as trade partners sought to ensure food security, the ministry said in a statement. Given food export bans in some countries, Thailand was evaluating its products for domestic food sufficiency, Jurin Laksanawisit told a news conference. Food exports rose 2.2% in April from a year earlier while rice shipments jumped 44%. Thai rice exports should reach 7-8 million tonnes(MT) this year after 6.1 MT last year, Jurin said. However, shipments to most markets slowed in April, with those to the US up 13.6% from a year earlier after a 21.5% jump in March. Exports to Russia slumped 77%.

Lockdown spurs household savings to decadal highs

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @Mumbai

FINANCIAL savings of the household sector – the most important source of funds – surged by 3.6 percentage points to 11.5% of gross national disposable income (GNDI) in FY21, the highest in over two decades, RBI's annual report said.

The reduction in discretionary spending amidst the pandemic and the associated issues forced savings, as well as a surge in precautionary savings, on concerns relating to income flows in the near-term boosted saving by households.

Savings in the form of deposits saw the highest growth, rising to 6.3% of GNDI in FY21 from 4.2% in the preceding year. Investments in insurance funds also contributed to the jump, rising to 2.6% from 1.8% of GNDI. This was followed by savings in cash (1.9% of GNDI from 1.4%) and investments in provident and pension funds.

"With avenues of investments largely closed during the lockdown, perforce money flowed into bank deposits and into the stock markets through insurance and pension funds," said Madan Sabnavis , chief economist at Bank of Baroda.

Savings in physical assets like property and land saw a sharp decline to 10.2% of GNDI from 11.1% while savings in valuables like gold and silver ornaments was flat at 0.2% of GNDI.

The rate of gross domestic saving had dropped to 27.8% of gross national disposable income (GNDI) in FY21 from 29.4% a year ago due to dissaving of the general government sector and a fall in saving of the non-financial corporations.

Ex-Twitter India head steps down from Invact Metaversity

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @Bengaluru

FORMER Twitter India head Manish Maheshwari, who launched edtech start-up Invact Metaversity just six months ago, has stepped down from the firm as its CEO and director.

For a few weeks now, Maheshwari and another co-founder Tanay Pratap, who was previously with Microsoft, have been in the news, as they had diverging visions for the company. The start-up ran into trouble as one founder wanted the company to be an edtech and another a metaverse venture.

Earlier, Maheshwari said, "At Invact Metaversity, we do not want to be another online school. We started with a vision to deliver a significantly differentiated learning experience for students, leveraging the metaverse's potential." "We are now standing at crossroads. We are exploring several options," he added. The start-up's angel investor Gergely Orosz on Twitter said that Maheshwari is holding the company "hostage," and that he lied to its investors. Soon after that, he deleted the tweet after coming to an agreement with the former Twitter India head. "I am so done with unethical founders," he tweeted. On Friday, Invact Metaversity confirmed that Maheshwari is stepping down and that Tanay Pratap will lead the start-up.

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @New Delhi

STATE-OWNED GAIL on Friday said it is open to buying Russian oil and gas assets, shunned by Western companies following Russia's invasion of Ukraine.

While announcing the fourth quarter result, Manoj Jain, chairman of GAIL, said India's largest gas transmitter can't be anything if it is not making any businesses and nobody can stop it from doing business anywhere. "GAIL is open to do business anywhere in the world, including Russia," said Jain.

‘Bilaterals may get ‘squeezed’ with longer duration for leagues like IPL’

The bilateral contests between international teams may get “squeezed” if the window for T20 leagues like the IPL keep getting longer, ICC Chairman Greg Barclay said. Asked how one strikes a balance, Barclay said, “But more events, and longer time periods through those events mean there is going to be squeeze, we know there are only 365 days a year...”

BUTTLER-FLY

After Prasidh’s and McCoy’s exploits with the ball, Buttler’s century puts RR in final of IPL

VENKATA KRISHNA B @Chennai

IN a season where toss has played a huge role in the outcome of a contest, Rajasthan Royals have been an exception. Seven of their nine wins in the league stage came when they batted first and in each of those, Sanju Samson, ended up losing the toss. No captain in the history of the IPL has lost as many as 13 tosses in a single edition. Yet, with a bit of luck – which you need in the format – they ended up second in the league table, thereby giving themselves two shots at reaching the final.

At the Narendra Modi Stadium, for a change Samson called correctly. He gleefully chose to bowl first against Royal Challengers Bangalore.

On a fresh wicket which had bounce and grip, all that Rajasthan needed was their bowling unit to come good. They have bowled in worse situations at the start of the tournament with their two spinners – R Ashwin and Yuzvendra Chahal – even operating with water-soaked balls. But courtesy the scoreboard cushion provided by a red-hot Jos Buttler, and the guile of their spinners to go with new ball bowlers Trent Boult and Prasidh Krishna, it meant Rajasthan found a way.

On Friday, with dew out of the equation and Chahal having a rare off-day, going for 45 runs without taking a wicket, and Ashwin picking up only one wicket (1/31), their pace unit made the most of the conditions. Prasidh, Boult and Obed McCoy rose to the occasion. With the pitch offering good bounce and pacers finding movement, they kept Bangalore in check. Every time a Bangalore batter looked set, the quicks ensured they didn’t last long. Rajat Patidar, the centurion in the Qualifier I, was the lone exception on the night scoring 58.

If Prasidh started by removing Virat Kohli, McCoy took care of Faf du Plessis, Mahipal Lomror and Harshal Patel, apart from taking a well-judged catch to dismiss Glenn Maxwell for Boult’s only wicket. But it was Prasidh who crushed Bangalore’s hopes. For a team that has stuck to a plan with the batting order, Friday was no different. It is the slog overs that Bangalore usually target and have even pulled a coup or two. So when Dinesh Karthik, their designated finisher, walked in the middle of the 16th over with 130 on board, Bangalore looked set to post a big total on board, especially if one goes by Rajasthan’s worries with the ball at the death.

After McCoy gave only seven runs in the 18th over, the 19th was supposed to be make or break for Bangalore. And Prasidh ensured Bangalore didn’t get any leeway as he removed Karthik and Wanindu Hasaranga off successive balls and gave only eight runs. And with McCoy conceding only three runs off the final over, Bangalore scored only 27 runs off the last four overs and ended up with 157/8.

The total was never sufficient from the moment Yashasvi Jaiswal scored 16 runs of the first over as Buttler took over from there. The opener’s fourth century of the season meant Rajasthan jogged to the final for only the second time.

Brief scores: RCB 157/8 in 20 ovs (Patidar 58; Prasidh 3/22, McCoy 3/23) lost to RR 161/3 in 18.1 ovs (Buttler 106 n.o).

Nikhat open to any trial or test

ANMOL GURUNG @Chennai

FOR an athlete, basking in the glory for too long is usually considered perilous. It can bring with it complacency and eventual laziness too. Dusting off the success and getting ready for the next challenge is what keeps champions going. Nikhat Zareen is no stranger to such challenges.

The 25-year-old knows with the world title comes more intense focus on her. She knows how difficult the journey had been to emerge from the shadow of injuries and a legend. As she says, she can’t rest on her past laurels and face whatever challenges have been hoisted at her. It’s barely been a week since that historic feat and now she has to turn her focus on selection trials for Commonwealth Games (CWG).

With the national selection trials soon, she says she is ready for any form of challenge. “I’ll have to be part of the trials for the CWG. But that’s okay. I’ll be following the rules and that’s also a massive chance to prove my mettle in the ring. It will be kind of a message to everyone. I have beaten everyone in 52kg for World Championships, I did the same in 51kg and earned a spot in the Asian Games and in now in the 50kg, if I manage to beat everyone and get selected for CWG then everyone will get a fair idea that I have proven myself in every category,” Nikhat said, when asked to give her opinion on selection trials.

Nikhat, who has been in a league of her own ever since the national championships last year, will be expected to ace the trials. When asked about what she was thinking soon after her final bout, she said: “She (Mother) always used to pray for me before every bout. Her prayers were answered by god. That’s one reason I remembered her immediately and I wanted to talk to her and show her the medal and wanted to tell her ‘your daughter has become a world champion’. That is why I got a little emotional. After all the hard work, after so many years, I won a big medal for the country, so that was also why I got emotional.”

Nikhat’s family has been a real source of inspiration for her. During trying times, it was her mother who she would turn to for emotional support. It was her parents who backed her when the world was against her from taking up a gruelling sport like boxing. Their perennial support has just added belief in her and made her mentally stronger, something that is evident now. “I remember when I used to be in the camp, people used to make comments about the manner in which I dress. But my parents would hide those negative comments from me. My sisters would inform me about those things later.” With the Paris Olympics in her mind, she wants to ensure that her focus remains intact. She knows she has to sacrifice much more.

India eye revenge vs Japan in Super 4 match

JAKARTA: Having risen like a proverbial phoenix from the ashes, a rejuvenated Indian men’s hockey team would like to put up a much-improved performance when it takes on Japan in its first ‘Super 4’ match of the Asia Cup on Saturday. Despite facing a below-par Indonesia in their final group league game, the young side coached by Sardar Singh must be lauded for being able to score a whopping 16 goals in just an hour.

Mangaluru: Tamil Nadu surfers dominated the opening day of the three-day Indian Open surfing, the sport’s national championship in Mangaluru. Sri Lanka crush B’desh to win Test series

DHAKA: Sri Lanka crushed Bangladesh by 10 wickets in the second Test to win the series 1-0 after the host team collapsed from 156-5 to 169 all out in its second innings on Friday. Sri Lanka easily reached the target on the fifth and final day to finish 29-0 in three overs with Oshada Fernando hitting 21 off only nine balls. Bangladesh scored 365 in the first innings. LAST DANCE

After plenty of tears and sweat, this season’s Champions League final will be contested between serial winners Real Madrid and Liverpool on Saturday

BENZEMA OR SALAH/MANE?

With 15 goals in the competition, Karim Benzema has been in a league of his own. Hat-tricks against PSG and Chelsea says it all. At this stage, he’s the favourite to win the Ballon d'Or. But AFCON winner Sadio Mane, who has also had a terrific season, could possibly nick it from the Frenchman if he manages to come up with a memorable show and help Liverpool win a treble. Even though he hasn’t been in the best of form, Salah could also stake a claim in that regard. He is a big game player.

BATTLE OF MIDFIELD

This match could be won in the midfield. Real boasts players like Luka Modric and Toni Kroos, players who could dictate the tempo of the match and unsettle Liverpool’s play. The English side will hoping that Thiago Alcantara, who suffered an injury in their last domestic game against Wolves, will be fit enough to start. Fabinho’s presence could also prove to be massive.

30 No of goals Liverpool have scored this term. Real have scored 28.

G7 VOWS NEAR ZERO-CARBON POWER GRIDS BY 2035

> The 2035 target for power sector decarbonisation is a real breakthrough. In practice, this means countries need to phase out coal by 2030 at the latest
>
> Luca Bergamaschi, director of Rome-based campaign group ECCO

ENERGY

BERLIN: Officials from the Group of Seven wealthy nations announced on Friday that they will aim to largely end greenhouse gas emissions from their power sectors by 2035, making it highly unlikely that those countries will burn coal for electricity beyond that date. Ministers from the G-7 countries meeting in Berlin also announced a target to have a "highly decarbonised road sector by 2030," meaning that electric vehicles would dominate new car sales by the end of the decade.

And in a move aimed at ending the recurring conflict between rich and poor nations during international climate talks, the G-7 recognised for the first time the need to provide developing countries with additional financial aid to cope with the loss and damage caused by global warming.

The agreements, which will be put to leaders next month at the G-7 summit in Elmau, Germany, were largely welcomed by climate activists.

"The 2035 target for power sector decarbonisation is a real breakthrough. In practice, this means countries need to phase out coal by 2030 at the latest," said Luca Bergamaschi, director of Rome-based campaign group ECCO.

Coal is a heavily polluting fossil fuel that's responsible for a fifth of global greenhouse gas emissions caused by humans. While there are ways to reduce emissions of carbon dioxide from the burning of coal, experts say it is almost impossible to reduce it to zero, meaning it will likely have to be the first fossil fuel to be phased out.

G-7 members Britain, France and Italy have already set themselves deadlines to stop burning coal for electricity in the next few years. Germany and Canada are aiming for 2030; Japan wants more time; while the Biden administration has set a target of ending fossil fuel use for electricity generation in the United States by 2035.

A common target would put pressure on other major polluters to follow suit and build on the compromise deal reached at last year's UN climate summit, where nations committed merely to "phase down" rather than "phase out" coal — with no fixed date. US climate envoy John Kerry called the agreements reached in Berlin "very comprehensive and forward-leaning." "I think it will help lay the groundwork for what has to happen at the G-20," he told The Associated Press, referring to a meeting later this year of the broader Group of 20 leading and emerging economies, who are responsible for 80% of global emissions.

Getting all G-20 countries to sign on to the ambitious targets set by some of the most advanced economies will be difficult, as countries such as China, India and Indonesia remain heavily reliant on coal.

Supercyclones' impact to be heavier in India

NATURAL DISASTER

LONDON: Super cyclones, the most intense form of tropical storms, are likely to have a much more devastating impact on people in India in the future due to climate change, according to a modelling study.

Researchers from the University of Bristol in the UK examined the 2020 Super Cyclone Amphan—the most costly cyclone to make landfall in South Asia—and predicted its implications under several scenarios of sea-level rise caused by global warming.

The study, published in the journal Climate Resilience and Sustainability, showed that if greenhouse gas emissions continue at the current rate, more than two and a half times (250 per cent) of India's population would experience flooding of greater than one metre, compared to the event in 2020.

"South Asia is one of the most climate-sensitive regions in the world, with super cyclones causing tens to hundreds of thousands of deaths in historical cases," said study lead author Dann Mitchell.

"Comparatively, very little climate impact research has been done in South Asia, despite the Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change highlighting it as such a critical region," he said.

WHO fears community spread of monkeypox

HEALTH

LONDON: A senior World Health Organization official quoted by Reuters expressed fears of a possible community spread of monkeypox infection, which is now found in 20 countries.

During a public briefing on Friday, the UN health agency said there are still many unanswered questions about how the current epidemic arose, but there is no evidence that any genetic changes in the virus are responsible for the unprecedented epidemic. The WHO says nearly 200 cases of monkeypox have been reported in more than 20 countries not usually known to have outbreaks of the unusual disease, but described the epidemic as 'containable' and proposed creating a stockpile to equitably share the limited vaccines and drugs available worldwide.

"The first sequencing of the virus shows that the strain is not different from the strains we can find in endemic countries and (this outbreak) is probably due more to a change in human behaviour," said Dr Sylvie Briand, WHO's director of pandemic and epidemic diseases. Earlier this week, a top adviser to WHO said the outbreak in Europe, US, Israel, Australia and beyond was likely linked to sex at two recent raves in Spain and Belgium. That marks a significant departure from the disease's typical pattern of spread in central and western Africa, where people are mainly infected by animals.

FACT OF THE MATTER

ARCTIC'S QUEST FOR GREEN TOURISM

SUSTAINABILITY

Home to polar bears, the midnight sun and the northern lights, a Norwegian archipelago perched high in the Arctic is trying to find a way to profit from its pristine wilderness without ruining it. The Svalbard archipelago, located 1,300 kilometres from the North Pole and reachable by commercial airline flights, offers visitors vast expanses of untouched nature, with majestic mountains, glaciers and frozen fjords. Svalbard is now on the frontline of climate change, with the Arctic warming three times faster than the planet. The local coal mines—the original reason for human settlements here—have closed and tourism has become one of the main pillars of the local economy.

DEFORESTATION UP 66% IN BRAZIL

ENVIRONMENT

Deforestation surged 66% in 2021 in Brazil's Atlantic Forest, according to a new report, compounding fears over the rampant destruction of the Amazon rainforest further north. The "Mata Atlantica," which stretches down Brazil's eastern coast, lost 21,642 hectares of forest cover from November 2020 to October 2021, up two-thirds from the year before, according to the report, which was based on satellite monitoring data and published late Wednesday by an environmental group. Cutting down that forest—the size of more than 20,000 football fields—released the equivalent of 10.3 million tonnes of carbon dioxide into the atmosphere, said the group, SOS Mata Atlantica.

Not so 'aam'

Before the mango season concludes, this restaurant is offering a mango-flavoured meal

ISHRATH MUBEEN

PURI with aamras, mango holige, chaats with a tinge of raw mango, mango kodabu, and a range of desserts with a twist of mango. This mango season, traditional vegetarian restaurant Hallimane is hosting a mango mela till May 31 where they are offering a large variety of mango-based dishes ranging from main course to chaats and desserts. From regular halbai (a Mangalurean sweet) that has been transformed into mango halbai, to mango-flavoured rasmalai, the place will satisfy your mango cravings.

While it initially started as a mango dessert fest, Bengalurueans' response and expectations inspired the team to introduce mango-based main course, says Ravindra Sanjeev Rao, manager of the restaurant. At the beginning of the mango season, Rao's blogger-friend suggested they host a mango mela since several fine dines in the city do. Although an alien concept in darshinis, the management gave their nod to it. "Recipes were discussed and soon, a mango dessert menu replaced the regular one," says Rao.

Yet another food blogger friend, who explores mango fests happening across the city, organised a table for guests at Hallimane to try the delicacies. "When people walked in at lunchtime and expected not only mango-flavoured desserts but a whole meal, we realised we should introduce full meals. For the past week, it has been house-full because," says Rao, adding, "The mango pulp we use is from the Ratnagiri Alphonso mangoes that come from Pune."

Of all the dishes, the mango halbai and hollige are the best-selling. "Both the desserts have been stealing the show since day one. Customers wait for more than an hour before they get their turn at the table," he says.

'KEEPING IT SIMPLE AND CLASSY IS MY MANTRA'

During her visit to B'luru, Bollywood actor Shraddha Kapoor stops by to speak to CE about her work, life and more

ANILA KURIAN

SHE'S bubbly yet soft-spoken and often plays badass roles in her movies like Saaho, Baaghi and Street Dancer 3D. That's Bollywood actor Shraddha Kapoor, who was in the city recently to inaugurate a new experience centre for Melorra on Commercial Street. "I'd term Bengaluru as the hub for millennials. From shopping, and hanging out to even sightseeing, the city has a lot to offer," she says.

Sporting a plush pink mini dress, the Chhichhore actor is known for dressing for the occasion. Ask her her go-to styles and she says, "In a casual mood, I prefer wearing a pair of gold studs and a necklace with a white shirt/T-shirt and jeans. But for a night out, I prefer wearing a statement gold bracelet and danglers with a little black dress."

Kapoor is not known just for her acting but also for her singing. She has lent her voice to songs like Galliyan from Ek Villain, Do Jahaan from Haider, Rock On-Revisited from Rock On 2 and Phir Bhi Tumko Chaahungi from Half Girlfriend, and is currently working on Luv Ranjan's film which is yet to be titled.

So, does she have a certain mantra before she takes the stage? She says, "My mantra is to keep it simple and classy. I have to just feel confident in whatever I wear. Confidence automatically makes one look good and at ease. You have to feel happy and in complete control."

If you were to scroll through her Instagram account, you'll find her sharing stories about her work, time with families and the books she reads. The avid reader took to extensive reading during the pandemic even between working on her professional projects. "When I was at home during the lockdowns, I was able to revive my habit of reading in the best possible manner," she says, adding that her latest collection includes The Ministry of Utmost Happiness by Arundhati Roy, Conscious Collective by Joseph Kauffman, Homos Deus by Yuval Noah Harari and A New Earth by Eckhart Tolle.

While she headed back to her home city, Mumbai, post the event, she hopes to come back to the Bengaluru to explore its vibrant spots.

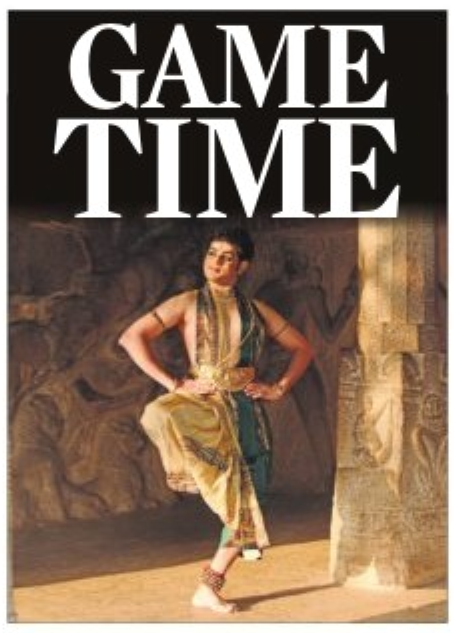
Parama Padam – Life's Game of Snakes and Ladders, uses the rich movement vocabulary of Bharatanatyam, and explores the narrative of the game's moral values with references from epics



GAME TIME

G ULAGANATHAN

PARAMA Padam is an interesting dance production to look forward to on Sunday. This performance is part of an India tour by the Singapore-based Apsara Arts ensemble. It was presented in Mumbai and Chennai recently.

This presentation is by Mohanapriyan, the principal dancer and resident choreographer who has been with the company since 2012.

Parama Padam – Life's Game of Snakes and Ladders, uses the rich movement vocabulary of Bharatanatyam, and explores the narrative of the game's moral values with references from Indian epics, communicated through Abhinaya.

Aravinth Kumarasamy, the artistic director of Apsaras Arts Dance Company, says, "This is my attempt to create awareness on Indian heritage. As our world moves towards globalisation, we need to create opportunities to look back at our roots. Parama Padam is a good example where the game, while entertaining players, aims to teach life's values. While many of us around the globe have played Snakes and Ladders, not many in our generation know it has its origins in India." The age-old art-form, Bharatanatyam, provides the platform to explore novel and abstract works, he adds.

Mohanapriyan Thavarajah is one of the world's youngest male dancers who has specialised in sculpted chiselled geometry lines of his dance, and his choreography is a mixture of rhythmic athleticism and sensitively nuanced expressive elements of story. This student of Philosophy is currently pursuing his Ph.D in the field ofdance.

Explaining Parama Padam, Arvinth says it was created by the followers of the Vaishnavite faith, with the dual purpose of entertainment and teaching moral values of human life. On the game board, there are a hundred squares which are illustrated with snakes and ladders. The ladders in the game represent good virtues and the snakes indicate vices. Ladders take you up as the good deeds take us to heaven, while the snakes bring you down as to a cycle of rebirths. The final goal is to reach Vaikuntha or heaven.

The piece is choreographed and performed by Thavarajah and has music composition by Dr Rajkumar Bharathi, well-known music director and grandson of Tamil poet, Subramanya Bharathi; the lighting design is by GyanDev Singh. G Srikanth provides vocal support and the orchestra includes V Vedakrishnan (mridangam), Ganapathy Venkatasubramaniam (violin), Embar Kannan (veena), and Bhavani Prasad (flute).

There are two shows at the Bangalore International Centre, Domlur on May 29, at 4 pm and 7 pm.

XPRESS FOCUS

'We are the first to start 3D laparoscopic surgery in India'

Altius Hospitals, Bengaluru has evolved as a leader in the healthcare system because of its integrated model that spans from gynaecology to cardiology and 24/7 emergency care to dialysis treatment and outpatient treatments. With two specialised hospitals and one multi-speciality hospital, Altius aims to treat people, not diseases. Dr. B Ramesh, the founder and a specialist in laparoscopic surgeries and gynaecology, speaks about the specialised services offers at his Rajajinagar centre and the other services offered in his two hospitals.

Tell us about the journey of Altius Hospitals so far.

Altius Hospital, Rajajinagar is dedicated to laparoscopic surgeries, gynaecology, and infertility. This hospital was started in 2004 and since then, we have been serving various sections of the society, without limiting to laparoscopic surgeries. Our muti-speciality hospital in HBR Layout offers every speciality, be it general medicine, general surgery, cardiology, or oncology.

Another area is infertility and IVF. After the surgery, many infertility patients need further treatment in the form of test tube baby treatment and for that a centre was established at HBR Layout. Thousands of babies are born using IVF technique. We produce around 60% pregnancy rate which is at par with international results.

What is the core competence of the Rajajinagar Centre?

The core competence is laparoscopic surgery and gynaecology. The advantage of laparoscopic surgery is that it is a key hole procedure, an operation performed in the abdomen or pelvis using small incisions with the aid of a camera.

Normally, we perform over 1000 surgeries in a year, among them uterus removal is the most common. We also perform laparoscopic fibroid removal, cyst removal, surgeries for infertility, removal of hernia, gall bladder, and appendix, etc.

Any firsts for Altius Hospital?

We were the first to start 3D laparoscopic surgery in India seven years back. The advantage is that it is like viewing a 3D film, which eases performing complex surgeries like cancer and endometriosis surgery and it is very comfortable for the patient.

Are you exploring any new technologies?

We are looking at possibilities of performing surgeries through Natural orifice translumenal endoscopic surgery (N.O.T.E.S). It is a technique that allows access to the peritoneal cavity through natural orifices (oral, rectal, vaginal, vesical) without passing through the anterior abdominal wall. We can do appendix and gall bladder removal of a female patients through the vagina. This is something we are doing for the first time in India.

Do you have any other training programmes?

We offer a training programme in laparoscopic surgeries for students all over India. We have trained over 1500 gynecologists. We also provide a fellowship programme for 18 months from Rajiv Gandhi Health University. We select the candidates for the fellowship and exclusively train them in laparoscopic surgeries.

We also organise an international conference called 'Rage', once in two years. The three-day programme includes demonstration of various new surgeries by expert doctors from across the world. A day is reserved for lectures and it is a major event attended by over 600 doctors from across the country and abroad.

CHILL, HANG & BOUNCE

RUBINATIONS

Rubi Chakravarti

Writer, actor and funny girl

SLOWLY the world, the city we live in and our surroundings are turning into a cesspool that it was before the pandemic struck. The two years that we spent confined in our spaces, apprehensive and mortified, has taught us nothing. We, the human race, are creatures of habit. We revert to being narcissistic and self-serving in a flash. We hear, see and feel nothing, but most importantly we learn nothing. Things have reverted to a big circle of nothingness. Traffic snarls at you, while the carbon-monoxide chokes the city and its fauna. The unscrupulous 'men in white', meanwhile, have carved out our city, selling it piece by piece to the highest bidder.

I have seen over 10,000 dying and neglected saplings ostensibly waiting to be transplanted as the 'greedy and avaricious' pretend to obey the law by making a feeble attempt to re-plant them. Saplings languish and die, because they are left out to face the elements or have been re-planted in totally unsuitable areas. Much like our citizenry…unwanted and uncared for with no accountability from the powers that be.

I have used the plight of the unsung sapling analogy in my rant, but as they say, 'Business is booming' and all the money that lay dormant and unused has come out. Buildings are cropping up as old heritage structures face the axe. Lately, an old Bangalore family home on Lavelle Road, has been sold for a small fortune and is now facing the axe, along with the beautiful trees on the property which are over 100 years old! I wonder where all this money was when the 'scrupulous' amongst us were trying to raise funds for medical supplies during the Covid crises?

Ah well! I have been advised by my friends and kids to just 'chill 'and 'hang'! Sounds ominous but when I got into the spirit of things, it was fun.

I was out for dinner when a birdie whispered that a 'speakeasy' bar was to open soon. I was very excited at the concept of the 'cloak of secrecy' (one needed a last-minute entry password) and the location was a secret nondescript paan shop. Generally, speakeasy bars are bars behind closed doors offering exclusive cocktails and food menu items in a restricted environment that is only accessible to a few. All the cities of the world have their secret place and now Bengaluru also has its own! Of course the night was 'chill', as we 'hung' and ultimately 'bounced' in the wee hours of the morning! A young hot-shot entrepreneur friend who invited us, was suitably impressed with my new 'vocab'… including my new hashtag, 'You snooze, you lose'!

Mitali Tandon, Reshma Millet, Chetak Athani, Preetham Bhaskar & Esha Bagla

I had to give our annual Bangalore Wine Club Annual-Meeting a skip (I believe it was fun and exciting and not 'chill' at all) to attend Kiran Soans' WOAP (World On A Plate) wine dinner at the JW Marriott. It was fun to dress up formally and meet a slew of new people. The 'vibe' was different as a saxophonist played some classic retro numbers, and Kiran elegantly tangoed with the ladies. I love the way our city contrasts itself with a starred hotel and a secret paan-shop entry seamlessly.

Just as I began to 'chill'…a frustrated teenager mowed down 17 kids and 2 adults in Texas. Then the angst grew…

WHEELCHAIR ROMEO

Cast: Ram Chethan, Mayuri Kyatari, Rangayana Raghu and Suchendra Prasad

Director: G. Nataraj

A DELICATE ISSUE SKILFULLY HANDLED WITH HUMOUR

A SHARADHAA

W*HEELCHAIR Romeo* could have been a great entry into the list of bold films laced with humour if it hadn't settled down to tick the commercial checkboxes. With a strong emotional quotient that involves the lives of people with disability, the film heavily relies on its dialogues, which are packed with ample double entendres and punchlines.

The story revolves around Ullas (Ram Chethan), suffering from a disorder that prevents him from moving the lower parts of his body. A determined Ullas tries to achieve all he wants with the help of his father Prasad (Suchendra Prasad). But when it comes to fulfilling his sexual desires, the narrative begins to change. After a few misses, Ullas meets a visually blind sex worker Dimple (Mayuri Kyatari). The two develop feelings for each other but will they get lucky forms the rest of the story. However, the roller-coaster tale gets a rather overdramatised end.

Debutant director, Nataraj has handled the sensitive subject skillfully and stands out with his sensible usage of humour. The punchlines by the late Guruprasad Kashyap add a lot of flavour to the proceedings. The director places the character in quirky and unusual situations, making every scene interesting. However, the last half an hour gets histrionic and tests our patience.

Ram Chethan's mannerisms and body language as a person in a wheelchair are convincing but it is Mayuri Kyatari as a visually-impaired sex worker who steals the show. This film would have been incomplete without the support of Rangayana Raghu, Suchendra Prasad, and Girish Shivanna. The out-of-the-box film is elevated by the music of Bharath BJ.

Wheelchair Romeo has an unusual and sensitive subject at its centre and it's topped with humour. The film is best-watched with an open mind.

RATING 3/5

KANEYADAVARA BAGGE PRAKATANE IS ABOUT MISSING PEOPLE, MEMORIES AND A MURDER

KANEYADAVARA BAGGE PRAKATANE

Cast: Rangayaa Raghu, Ravishanker, Tabala Nani, Chikkanna, Tilak and Ashika Ranganath

Director: Anil Kumar

A SHARADHAA

WHILE exploring themes like aging, insecurity and pondering over heartwarming memories, Kaneyadavara Bagge Prakatane does not go by the regular formula. Coming from the director of commercial films like Shakti, Dilwala, Rambo 2, and Krishna Rukku, Anil Kumar's latest takes cues from real-life incidents spanning between the 60s, 80s, and the present.

Kaneyadavara Bagge Prakatane, which translates to 'missing people' traces the journey of childhood friends, Krishnamurthy (Ravi Shankar), Rangappa (Rangayana Raghu), and Narayana (Tabla Nani). The trio visit Bangkok along with a guide (Chikanna). The first half comprises flashback sequences from the days of their youth. On the other side, police officer Yashwant (Tilak), who is handling a murder case links the crime to these friends who are in their 60s. The investigation leads to unraveling of the murder mystery. Suspense around the truth propels the narrative forward with some interesting twists and turns.

The three senior actors--Ravi Shankar, Rangayana Raghu, and Tabla Nani--put up good performances. The characters played by Chikkanna, Tilak, and Shobaraj add value to the film. Director Anil Kumar faces the camera for the first time, and he pulls off his retro-look appearance, and also with the role. In fact, the film overall serves as a reality check for human values, relationships and sacrifices. The story also addresses the glaring concerns of children's relationship with their aging parents. However, the duration taken to convey the message is lengthy.

Although Kaneyadavara Bagge Prakatane is not a melodramatic tearjerker, it makes you feel responsible and accept life as it comes.

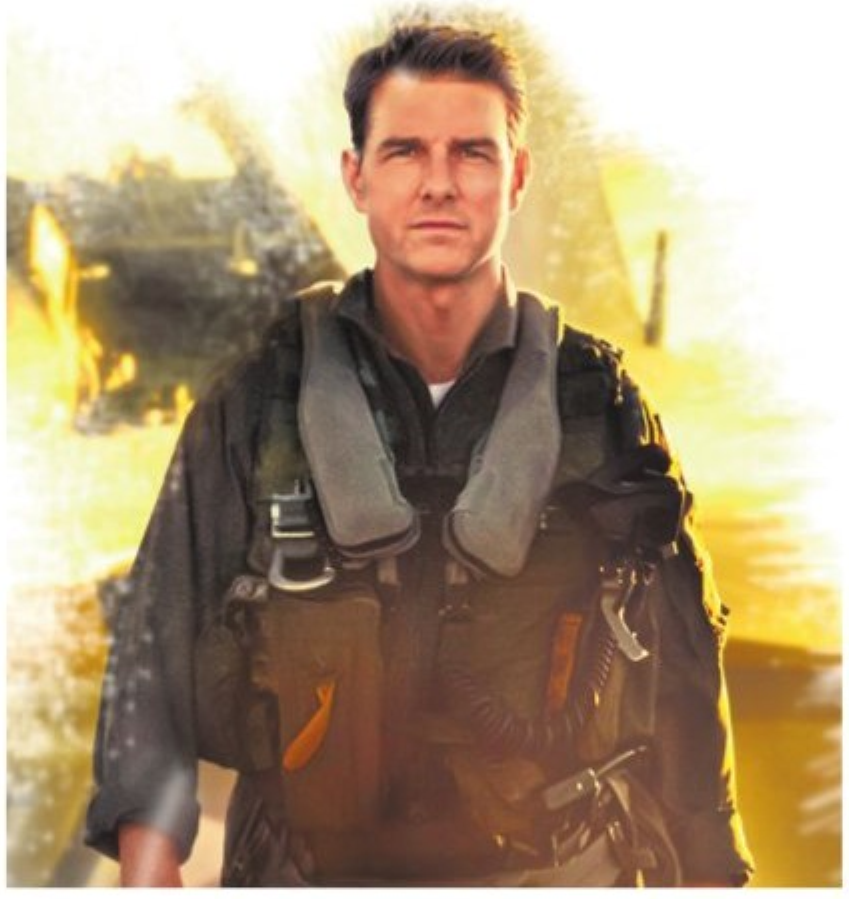
TOP GUN: MAVERICK

Cast: Tom Cruise, Miles Teller, Jennifer Connelly, Glen Powell

Director: Joseph Kosinski

GOPINATH RAJENDRAN



THIS GLORIOUS SEQUEL SOARS TO NEW HEIGHTS

IN the very first scene in the original Top Gun (1986), a high-ranking official, upon learning that the jets circling above are manned by Maverick and Goose, goes, "Great, Maverick and Goose!" In that film, initial exasperation turns into admiration as we learn about their friendship amid the chaos that is the TOPGUN programme. Three decades later, the film's sequel, Top Gun: Maverick, mirrors pretty much the same emotion but this time, we watch the trials and tribulations of Maverick (Tom Cruise) and Rooster (Miles Teller), the son of Goose, while the former discovers and trains new talent.

Still a captain, you might assume that the cocky ways of Maverick are long gone. Even if he's not exactly showing enemies the middle-finger, he's still feisty and spirited enough to destroy an expensive prototype by easily crossing the sound barrier. His rival-turned-friend Iceman (Val Kilmer), now an admiral, puts him in charge of an elite group of Top Gun graduates for a specialised mission. This sequel stays loyal to the conscience of the original while also looking ahead to a new mission.

Director Joseph Kosinski, who earlier collaborated with Cruise for the post-apocalyptic film Oblivion, retains the best of Top Gun in this sequel. He remembers to trigger nostalgia, right from the beginning when Giorgio Moroder's score that dominated the pop charts of the late 80s, 'Danger Zone', welcomes us and the opening credits, made with the font from the original, begin rolling. And of course, the first shot of Cruise is of him with his patched-up bomber jacket and aviators as he swings his leg over a Kawasaki GPZ900R and rides past an aircraft lifting off an airstrip. Five minutes into the sequel, you can see it cares.

Apart from evident callbacks to the original, Top Gun: Maverick also packs a number of storylines that are similar to the 1986 film. In the first film, Maverick and co approach a woman in a pub only to later know that she is a civilian top gun instructor. Here, Maverick gets thrown out of a pub by a bunch of top gun graduates who learn the very next day that he will be their trainer. There's even a sequence showing the team playing American football at a beach just like the beach volleyball games in the first film. Similar to how Maverick and Iceman used to be at loggerheads, there's visible tension between Rooster and Hangman (Glen Powell) here. Interestingly, Hangman comes off as the over-confident and arrogant one which feels more like a jab at Maverick's yesteryear characteristics. It reminded me of an iconic line from Top Gun where an officer looks at Maverick and goes, "Your ego is writing cheques your body can't cash." One of the most heartwarming scenes has Cruise looking at Rooster perform 'Great Balls of Fire', a song that Rooster's father Goose taught him 36 years ago.

Much like in the original, there are terrific fighter jet sequences and Kosinski, who has proved to be a visual storyteller with films like Tron: Legacy and Oblivion, puts us in the cockpit and makes us feel the impact of being hit by gravitational forces. The high-flying stunts are a treat, particularly when the jets create sonic booms when they break the sound barrier. The question is, when the cameras aren't trained at the sky, is this film able to hold our attention and create emotion? This sequel goes one better than the original, credit must go to Cruise's characterisation which sees him as a mentor and a father figure to Rooster, who has to prove to himself and others that he can not just be a good trainer but a great pilot too.

The scenes involving Cruise winning back the trust of the team by showcasing his airmanship and those that have him rebelling against bureaucracy are whistle-worthy moments. Even the 'slow' portions, like of him 'reuniting' with Penny, a character we didn't see in the first film, work, thanks to the performances of Cruise and Jennifer Connelly. This is really Cruise at his best, who's at home both within the confines of the cockpit and outside of it.

The mission in this film is about destroying a uranium enrichment facility located within a steep depression at the end of a mountainous canyon. As if that weren't enough, there are also surface-to-air missiles and an enemy airbase with Su-57 fifth-generation fighters to contend with. The pilots are expected to fly low to avoid radar detection and drop a missile into an exhaust opening that leads to the facility. While it reminded me of the climax of Star Wars: A New Hope, the actual scenes do try to take away the looming predictability. The film sticks to stereotypes we associate with this genre, but the treatment makes it feel like a homage, not boring repetition.

Unlike the first film which stuck predominantly to stories within the academy, save for the opening sequence and climax, the mission in this film brings in originality. Another smart move the makers seem to have learned from the first film is the representation of those behind enemy lines. We never come to know about the identities of those who pilot the enemy aircrafts, just like in that first film. Given the dynamics of today's world, where it's increasingly difficult to identify the good from the bad, this anonymity makes the violence easier to consume.

Top Gun: Maverick is a brilliant sequel that has the best of what made its predecessor such a cult hit, while also bringing in the freshness to win over a new generation. It's one of the few times that a sequel can be said to have eclipsed the greatness of the original.

THE WEAKEST OF ANUBHAV SINHA'S RECENT FILMS

SHILAJIT MITRA

ANEK

Cast: Ayushmann Khurrana, Andrea Kevichüsa, J D Chakravarthy, Manoj Pahwa

Director: Anubhav Sinha

ANUBHAV Sinha can direct. His last three films—Mulk, Article 15, Thappad—were robustly argued ideological statements, but one could also find in them moments of genuine cinematic merit. In Anek, however, I could only find one. It comes too late in the film: a band of rebels picking their way through a dark forest, and dying one by one. For once, Anubhav is in his element, using movement and imagery to convey a thought. The rest of the film shows little and tells a lot.

It's a coup of a subject matter. Aside from Dil Se.. many years ago, the political conflicts of Northeast India have rarely filled a mainstream Hindi film. Anubhav, teaming with co-writers Sima Agarwal and Yash Keswani, condenses a lot—"There are 30-40 rebel groups in the North East," says undercover cop Aman (Ayushmann Khurrana), tacitly acquitting the film from dealing with a single state or event. The pivot is a peace accord the Centre is bound to sign with separatist leader Tiger Sangha (Loitongbam Dorendra). Aman has been sent in to ensure its smooth execution. However, in the run-up to the big day, a new group has mobilised—'Johnson', actually contrived by Aman and his bosses as a political 'pressure point', but now usurped by unseen rebels.

Anek parallels these conflicts with the abject racism Northeast Indians face in the mainland. This is portrayed in no subtle terms; they're called things like 'chinki', 'Chinese', 'chilli chicken'. In a telling scene, Tiger Sangha is driven to a Delhi meeting and sees the passing monuments in harsh horror-film light. No direct connection is drawn, but it's evident how years of alienation, mistrust and socioeconomic disenfranchisement can fester into militancy. Not everyone is picking up guns; Aido (Andrea Kevishusa), a boxer, wants to represent India so she can voice the discontentment of her people. She's being wooed by Aman (under a phoney name, Joshua) to get close to his targets.

"I wish she had never walked into my café," he says, in voiceover, with none of the caustic heartache of Bogart's Rick Blaine.

The poor suffer in a conflict zone, we're told. The film, smartly, gives several human faces to this reality: a widow eking out an existence at Aman's café, her son falling in with rebels, faceless men held and tortured in makeshift prison camps. The ordinary population is caught between the violence of the insurgents and the brutal crackdowns of the state. While not lacking in empathy, the film fails to give these characters some interiority. Aido and her father, a suspected rebel, are always fighting. There is a mechanized rhythm to their lives, drawn along political lines. Emotions always get short shrift. Even the scene where Aman finally comes clean to Aido ends with him telling her, "You have to fight."

If you thought the 'Stand Up For National Anthem' promotional campaign was a bit much, wait till you see the whole film. Anubhav never misses a chance to preach. Hectoring an audience—whether right-wing, left-wing or apolitical—is never correct. Aman comes across as less a spy, more a Liberal Arts graduate looking for someone to banter with. His growing cynicism, meanwhile, is betrayed by the nationalistic packaging of his overall arc. Ayushman is greatly wasted in the part, sniffling instead of seething. The only kudos goes to Manoj Pahwa, entertaining as a government brute, and JD Chakravarthy in his Bollywood return. "Peace is a subjective hypothesis," he says calmly, much mellowed since the days of Satya.

In films like Haider, Madras Café or the relatively recent Sardar Udham, the politics of a world gradually gives way to a sustained character study. It's people—with their flaws, contradictions and less-than-perfect humanity—that ultimately tether us to the screen. Anek's foregrounding of the issues of the North East is commendable. But without great characters, without evocative detail, it's no better than the usual eyewash.
